Ranger 4 Due To Hit Moon

Washington Site Of Future Berlin Talks

Rusk, Soviet Envoy Agree To Meetings At 'Friendly' Huddle

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States and Russia decided Monday to seek an agreement to ease tensions in Berlin through a new series of conferences to be held in Washington.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin agreed to the new round of talks at a 55-minute conference at the State Department. Dobrynin requested the conference.

The Russian envoy suggested to the secretary that Washington be the site of future Berlin talks. At the end of the meeting, Rusk said he would let the ambassador know the U. S. answer soon.

No Evidence Of Progress

A short time later, Foy D. Kohler, assistant secretary of state for European affairs, telephoned Dobrynin at the Soviet Embassy and told him the Russian suggestion was acceptable.

There was no evidence that the United States and Russia are any closer to agreeing on what they meant by easing tensions in Berlin. Russia in the past has demanded withdrawal of Western forces from the divided city.

Presumably, before agreeing to the new Washington talks, Rusk sought the approval of President Kennedy, vacationing in Palm Beach, Fla.

The State Department said no date had been set for the next U.S.-Russian talk on Berlin. It was not certain that all meetings in the new series here would be between Rusk and Dobrynin.

Atmosphere Friendly

Previous Soviet-American exploratory sessions on Berlin have been held in Moscow and Geneva. Rusk and Dobrynin began the latest effort to solve the crisis at a 65-minute meeting last Monday.

Dobrynin described the atmosphere of Monday's conference as good. U.S. officials termed the atmosphere friendly and relaxed.

By the American side, the session was described as primarily procedural. No papers were exchanged and "no new ground was broken" U.S. officials said. This is pretty much the way they summed up last week's Rusk-Dobrynin meeting.

Dobrynin told reporters Monday's conference covered "everything dealing with the problem of a German peace treaty."

Students Found On Ledge They Cut From Mud

TRENTON, Ga. (AP) — Three college students spent more than 60 hours huddled on a tiny ledge carved from mud in a treacherous mountain cave before they were found by fraternity brothers Monday and rescued alive and well.

They were located in what is called a mud pack room deep in the heart of Lookout Mountain in northwest Georgia. A crack team of cave explorers brought them to the surface.

Their rescue touched off a joyous celebration at the mouth of the cave where friends and parents had waited.

The students, William Bartee, 20, and James Mason, 21, both of Atlanta, and Martin Huddleston, 19, of Ormond Beach, Fla., ate a hearty meal of steak, creamed potato, baked apple, coffee and milk. It was their first meal in more than 60 hours. They had only swallows of water during that period.

Went Down Rope

Mason and Huddleston both are students at Emory University in Atlanta. Bartee grew up in Atlanta with Mason and now is a student at Presbyterian College, Clinton, S.C.

Mason, wearing a red sweatshirt covered with mud, said they wanted to explore two big holes deep in the cave. They secured a rope at the top of a mud bank and went on down.

"We knew there was water down there, but we didn't know how much," he said. "I went down first and hit water about chest deep. The others came on down."

Mason said they went out a little distance and found the water in the subterranean lake over their heads. "We swam out about 40 feet and it was getting cold and we started cramping pretty good and we swam on back."

"We decided it was about time to leave and we started to climb up this sheer cliff by holding onto the rope but by this time it was pretty slimy. The more we tried to crawl up the rope the harder it got," he continud.

Tried To Carve Trench

"Using a knife, we crawled about 40 feet up the slope and carved out a four-foot trench," he said. "We took turns with two of us sitting in it and the third one lying across our laps to keep warm."

Mason said that later Huddleston made another attempt and climbed part way up the rope.

"We couldn't see him because he was too far above us, but we heard him fall and hit the water," Mason said. "He came to the surface and said he was all right. He was just lucky that he hit the water because there are a lot of jagged rocks in there. So we decided we'd better not try any more of that."

While on the narrow ledge, Mason said they didn't have anything to eat but did have a few swallows of water apiece. They hung a flashlight case on a string and dipped it into the lake and managed to obtain a little water that way.

DESTINATION: MOON — An Atlas-Agena rocket lifts from its lunch pad at Cape Canaveral yesterday on a planned course for the moon but a malfunction in the Ranger 4 spacecraft radio system apparently wrecked the major portion of the experiment. Faulty Brain Dooms Most Of Missions

But Impact On Back Side Is Expected Thursday Morning

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The Ranger 4 lunar vehicle speeding through space Monday night with a faulty brain will probably impact on the moon Thursday morning, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced Monday night.

The space agency announced at 10:25 p.m. EST—more than seven hours after launching—that tracking data indicate the gold and silver space craft will probably hit the moon at 8:55 a.m. EST, April 26.

An announcement said that the Ranger 4 on its present course will pass about 900 miles above the top edge of the moon and impact on the back side—the part of the moon never seen from the earth.

The space agency said that the impact will occur at a lunar latitude of six degrees south, and longitude of 216 degrees east.

The announcement said that an attempt to send signals to try to correct a malfunction in the space craft at 9:30 p.m. Monday night apparently had failed, and the Ranger 4 would continue on a collision course with the moon.

No TV Pictures

This eliminated the possibility that two other major goals of the experiment could be accomplished. These aims were the relay of television pictures as the vehicle neared the moon, and the separation and landing of an instrument package which would have relayed information on moon quakes and meteor hits.

Nevertheless, officials reported that attempts would continue to be made to correct the spacecraft's malfunction by sending radio command signals to the vehicle.

However, they felt that there was very little chance of success, and that Ranger 4 will continue tumbling until it crashes and destroys itself on the moon Thursday.

Despite the failure of a major portion of the ambitious experiment, hitting the moon would be a consolation prize as the first such accomplishment in the trouble-ridden U.S. moonshot program.

Trouble In Timer

A spokesman for the laboratory that made the spacecraft said the trouble apparently was in a timer—a clock-like electronic device activated a few seconds before launching. Its purpose was to allow a central computer and sequencer to issue steering commands to Ranger 4 on a precise, preset timetable in the early stages of flight.

A giant Atlas-Agena B rocket blasted away from its launching pad at 3:50 p.m. with the gold and silver spacecraft tucked in its nose.

The powerful booster worked as planned, unleashing the 730-pound Ranger 4 on a course toward the moon at the planned speed of 24,500 miles per hour.

But two hours later, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported a malfunction had occurred in the spacecraft radio system making it impossible to determine whether Ranger 4 was responding to commands sent to it from earth.

More Efficient Atom Warheads Test Objective

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. scientists and military chiefs, poised for a new series of nuclear tests, hope to find ways to pack even greater destructive power into smaller warheads.

Informed sources said today a major aim of these aerial tests, the first such in the Pacific in nearly four years, will be to increase the efficiency of U.S. missile warheads and nuclear bombs.

Experiments looking toward more efficient warheads will come in what are called weapon effects tests in which nuclear devices—as distinguished from finished weapons — are exploded under various conditions.

The Soviet Union is believed to have made strides toward greater warhead efficiency in its most recent series last fall. But authorities feel the Soviets still trail the United States in this aspect of nuclear weaponry.

Nuclear efficiency sometimes is referred to as "a bigger bang for a buck." The cost factor is an important one, since nuclear weapons are expensive. But much more than economy is at stake.

As nuclear warheads become more efficient—that is, produce greater blasts from smaller amounts of material — they increase the striking effectiveness of the rockets that propel them.

This is especially important to the United States, which is building its future long-range striking power around the Polaris submarine-launched missile and the land-based Minuteman intercontinental ballistic missile.

The Polaris warhead, as now designed, can release the blast equivalent of about 400,000 tons of TNT. The Minuteman is rated at about 500,000-600,000 tons of TNT.

While U.S. military men say this is enough to knock out most targets, they want both warheads made more potent to widen their blast range and to deepend their ground penetration to get at Soviet missile launching pads which may be dug in deep.

Guido Seen Erasing Peronist Victories

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — The government announced Monday night that interim Argentine President Jose M. Guido will call for new presidential and vice presidential elections no later than Sunday. There were indications Guido had decided to fulfill all constitutional requirements, which would mean the new elections would be held within 90 days.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Faced by renewed threats of military takeover, President Jose Maria Guido was reported yielding Monday night to navy demands that he wipe out election victories won by followers of exiled dictator Juan D. Peron.

There was no official word but informed sources, echoed by every newspaper in this capital, pictured Guido ready to sign anti-Peronist and anti-Communist decrees demanded by the navy.

In an obvious move to back its words with steel, naval chiefs ordered a 500-man marine battalion to the capital area for use in case of disorder.

Carrying on conferences started Sunday night, Guido remained in his office holding talks with politicians and military leaders in an effort to find a peaceful solution to the prolonged crisis touched off by Peronist landslide victories March 18.

Earlier in the day the navy secretary, Rear Adm. Gaston Clement, emerged from a session smiling. But he declined to say anything to reporters.

The admiral issued a bulletin to naval commands Sunday lining the navy up with army elements pressuring Guido to nullify the election results.

The informants said Guido was preparing to go along with another of Clement's demands — that the entire country be placed under federal control.

This would permit the president to replace all elected officials with his own appointees. It also would eliminate all the provincial legislatures.

Informants said Guido would sign a decree declaring null and void all elections held since Dec. 17, 1961. That would throw out all ballots cast for gubernatorial and legislative posts in Argentina's provinces and also for half the membership of the federal Chamber of Deputies.

RFK Suggests U.S. 'Salesmen' Be Sent Abroad

NEW YORK (AP)—Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy advocates dispatch abroad of articulate Americans to preach the facts of free life to all nations.

In a speech Monday at the annual meeting of The Associated Press, the President's younger brother said that on his recent trip around the world he encountered much misinformation and misunderstanding about the American way of life.

"We have a great problem," he continued, "but we have a great opportunity and, in my judgment, unless we are able in the next decade to convince the people of foreign countries—and particularly the students—that we are true to our ideals and that prosperity and decent health can be achieved in a system that preserves individual liberty, we will lose the cold war no matter how much money we spend on aid."

"Capitalism has become a dirty word because it is synonymous with selfishness. Many people in foreign lands believe that Americans are interested only in material gains, that they are not interested in their neighbors, not interested in their communities and not interested in those that are less well off," he said.

To offset this impression abroad, Kennedy suggested sending Americans—senators, Cabinet members, congressmen, governors, university professors, playwrights and poets—to all nations.

"These individuals should make tours of as many universities as possible and should confer with labor leaders, farm and cooperative leaders, newspaper editors, businessmen and government officials, as well as students," he said.

The object, the attorney general declared, would be to help those abroad "know the facts about us and our way of life."

Plan Would Cut Huge Stockpile By Defense Use

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate subcommittee proposed Monday that the government dispose of billions of dollars worth of surplus material by channeling it to defense contractors for conversion into military supplies.

Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., chairman of an Armed Services subcommittee which is investigating the nation's stockpile of strategic materials, outlined the plan in a statement at the start of public hearings.

"We are recommending to the President that in order to reduce these tremendous inventories, payment for various materials purchased by the Defense Department for the current multibillion defense program be made at least in part by the government's furnishing those materials to the supplier in question which would be necessary for that supplier to have in order to fill the order in question," he said.

Subcommittee counsel R. C. Coburn said that, as an example, the government could provide rubber to a defense contractor who makes military tires and tubes. The price of the raw rubber would be deducted from the amount the government paid for the tires and tubes.

Atomic Blasts Might Convert Sand To Metals

WASHINGTON (AP)—A former member of the Atomic Energy Commission said Monday nuclear explosions might someday create new metals and other useful materials from common substances such as sand.

Dr. Willard F. Libby said such possibilities were suggested by spectacular findings in the field of high-pressure chemistry — including cooking tasty steaks without fire by subjecting the raw meat to man-made pressure of 147,000 pounds per square inch.

He told a reporter the steak-cooking at 10,000 times normal sea-level pressure and the virtual explosion of rubber into simpler substances at pressures of 20,000 atmospheres, suggest that:

At pressures of up to 500,000 atmospheres, which are producible by nuclear explosions, it might be possible to convert common materials like carbon or silicon into new metals. Silicon is the basic ingredient of sand.

He talked about it in an interview after presenting a technical paper to the 99th annual meeting of the National Academy of Sciences. Libby, a Nobel Prize winner, is now director of the University of California's Institute of Geophysicis and Planetary Physics.

Moslems Sent Against OAS

ALGIERS (UPI) — Thirty thousand Moslem security police moved into Algiers, Bone, Oran and Constantine Monday with orders to shoot any member of the Secret Army Organization (OAS) on sight. It was the first time Moslems were sent into action again the OAS.

The OAS reacted to the shoot-to-kill order by killing ten persons and wounding six, far below the 30-a-day toll since Jan. 1. One of the victims was the secretary to the Oran police chief. He was found shot through the neck and his body partly burned.

The OAS also exploded three plastic bombs in Algiers in late afternoon but there were no casualties.

Ex-Con Admits Killing Girl, 15

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — A young ex-convict confessed Monday that he hired a pretty teenager as a baby sitter, drove her to a lonely road and killed her when she resisted his advances.

Kenneth M. Slyter, 26, an exterminator, tried to kill himself by gulping down DDT mixed with kerosene when he found police closing in on him. He was rushed to a hospital and later was released and jailed on murder charges.

Police said Slyter, whose wife has one child and is pregnant, led 15-year-old Sandra Holderfield to believe he needed a baby sitter in what he said was his fashionable home. He came by her house in a stolen car Saturday night, picked her up, and drove straight to a lonely dirt road north of Jackson.

Detective Chief M. B. Pierce said Slyter had not been questioned thoroughly about what took place but said Sandra apparently put up a fierce struggle. Pierce said Slyter admitted clubbing her in the face with a tire tool and running over her with a car.

Antinuclear Marchers Hold Giant London Rally

LONDON (AP)—Thousands of footsore marchers carrying ban-the-bomb placards filed almost silently into a square before the U.S. Embassy Monday night and held a 10-minute prayer for peace.

More than 200 police cordoned off the buliding. The demonstration — one of the biggest ever staged in London's "little America" area—was quiet and orderly.

It took place a few hours after a mass rally in Hyde Park, which climaxed the annual Easter march to London from Britain's nuclear weapons arsenal at Aldermaston, 50 miles southwest of the capital. Police estimated more than 40,000 people, including many sightseers enjoying the Easter holiday sunshine, attended the rally.

A few punches flew as counter-demonstrators shouted "Go back to Moscow" and "Keep the bomb."

Canon John Collins of St. Paul's Cathedral, leader of the British campaign for nuclear disarmament, later led thousands of supporters to the U.S. Embassy where he handed in a letter for President Kennedy. The letter appealed to Kennedy to abandon holding nuclear tests in the atmosphere.

Collins then drove to the Soviet Embassy where he handed in another letter addressed to Premier Khrushchev. It reminded Khrushchev that British ban-the-bomb groups had protested Russia's resumption of nuclear tests last year and urged him to withdraw his threat to carry out more tests if the Americans do so.

A third letter went to Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

No Trace Is Found Of Plane, 31 Aboard

BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI) —A combined sea and air search off northwestern Colombia Monday failed to turn up any trace of a missing Colombian DC3 transport with 31 persons aboard.

The twin-engined plane disappeared Sunday during a regularly-scheduled flight between Bahia Solano and Quibdo. Its route was mostly over water.

Passport Revocation Hearings Open Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department announced Monday it will start its first passport revocation hearings Tuesday under its new regulations barring passports to Communists.

The first case will be that of Elizabeth Gurly Flynn, 71, whom the Justice Department has identified as national chairman of the Communist party of the United States.

Press officer Lincoln White said the State Department hearing would be closed to newsmen although, under the department's regulation, no evidence can be used in revoking a passport except that which can be presented to the person whose passport has been denied.

Supreme Soviet Meets

MOSCOW (UPI) — The sixth Supreme Soviet — Russia's version of a parliament — convened behind the Kremlin walls Monday but adjourned until Tuesday after only an hour of organizing ceremonies. Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev attended but did not speak.

Coast Guard Gets New Commander

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President Kennedy picked Vice Adm. Edwin J. Roland Monday as commandant of the U.S. Coast Guard.

The Palm Beach White House announced also Kennedy would address graduation exercises at the U.S. Military Academy on June 6. The President spoke at the Naval Academy's commencement last June.

Lines Drawn For Senate Vote Literacy Test Clash

WASHINGTON (AP)—Opposing sides gathered their forces Monday night for the impending start of a Senate debate that could develop into another prolonged civil rights battle.

Democratic leaders said they would move to call up Tuesday the Kennedy-backed, voter literacy test bill and push it through to a showdown.

Southern senators took up positions against the measure, with every indication they were prepared to wage another all-out filibuster, if necessary, to defeat it.

Even before the battle was joined, Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., took the floor during a brief session Monday to denounce the bill as unconstitutional.

With an oblique reference to the Southerners' favorite tactic against civil rights bills — prolonged oratory — Stennis said he had no doubt the literacy test bill would be "discussed at great length—fully."

The measure would provide that a sixth-grade education be the maximum literacy requirement to qualify any person to vote in a federal election.

Stennis contended the states, and not Congress, are specifically empowered to fix voter qualifications. He said that if the administration bill should pass and be upheld in the courts it would mean, if effect, the written Constitution was gone.

On the other hand, Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., a civil rights leader, said over the weekend that passage of the literacy test bill was the very least Congress ought to do. He and other supporters of the bill say Congress is fully empowered to protect voting rights.

'Rollers' Cavort At White House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Thousands of children, some dressed as bunnies, cavorted Monday in the backyard of the White House at the traditional Easter Monday egg roll. The lawn was left littered with broken egg shells.

Many of the youngsters and their parents expressed disappointment that four-year-old Caroline Kennedy and her baby brother John Jr. did not attend the festivities. The Kennedy children are with President and Mrs. Kennedy in Palm Beach, Fla.

Caroline's playhouse, swings and a sliding board down from her tree house were fenced off from the crowd but were a prime attraction for the egg rollers and their parents.

One child pointed out to her mother, "she even has a punching bag."

The mother replied, "Caroline's got to keep in shape."

The black and white punching bag seemed to be a new addition to Caroline's play area.

Extra guards were on duty to handle the crowds that began surging through the gates at 10 a.m. EST.

As nuclear warheads become more efficient—that is, produce greater blasts from smaller amounts of material — they increase the striking effectiveness of the rockets that propel them.

This is especially important to the United States, which is building its future long-range striking power around the Polaris submarine-launched missile and the land-based Minuteman intercontinental ballistic missile.

The Polaris warhead, as now designed, can release the blast equivalent of about 400,000 tons of TNT. The Minuteman is rated at about 500,000-600,000 tons of TNT.

While U.S. military men say this is enough to knock out most targets, they want both warheads made more potent to widen their blast range and to deepend their ground penetration to get at Soviet missile launching pads which may be dug in deep.

Guido Seen Erasing Peronist Victories

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — The government announced Monday night that interim Argentine President Jose M. Guido will call for new presidential and vice presidential elections no later than Sunday.

There were indications Guido had decided to fulfill all constitutional requirements, which would mean the new elections would be held within 90 days.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Faced by renewed threats of military takeover, President Jose Maria Guido was reported yielding Monday night to navy demands that he wipe out election victories won by followers of exiled dictator Juan D. Peron.

There was no official word but informed sources, echoed by every newspaper in this capital, pictured Guido ready to sign anti-Peronist and anti-Communist decrees demanded by the navy.

In an obvious move to back its words with steel, naval chiefs ordered a 500-man marine battalion to the capital area for use in case of disorder.

Carrying on conferences started Sunday night, Guido remained in his office holding talks with politicians and military leaders in an effort to find a peaceful solution to the prolonged crisis touched off by Peronist landslide victories March 18.

Earlier in the day the navy secretary, Rear Adm. Gaston Clement, emerged from a session smiling. But he declined to say anything to reporters.

The admiral issued a bulletin to naval commands Sunday lining the navy up with army elements pressuring Guido to nullify the election results.

The informants said Guido was preparing to go along with another of Clement's demands — that the entire country be placed under federal control.

This would permit the president to replace all elected officials with his own appointees. It also would eliminate all the provincial legislatures.

Informants said Guido would sign a decree declaring null and void all elections held since Dec. 17, 1961. That would throw out all ballots cast for gubernatorial and legislative posts in Argentina's provinces and also for half the membership of the federal Chamber of Deputies.

Moslems Sent Against OAS

ALGIERS (UPI) — Thirty thousand Moslem security police moved into Algiers, Bone, Oran and Constantine Monday with orders to shoot any member of the Secret Army Organization (OAS) on sight. It was the first time Moslems were sent into action again the OAS.

The OAS reacted to the shoot-to-kill order by killing ten persons and wounding six, far below the 30-a-day toll since Jan. 1. One of the victims was the secretary to the Oran police chief. He was found shot through the neck and his body partly burned.

The OAS also exploded three plastic bombs in Algiers in late afternoon but there were no casualties.

Antinuclear Marchers Hold Giant London Rally

LONDON (AP)—Thousands of footsore marchers carrying ban-the-bomb placards filed almost silently into a square before the U.S. Embassy Monday night and held a 10-minute prayer for peace.

More than 200 police cordoned off the buliding. The demonstration — one of the biggest ever staged in London's "little America" area—was quiet and orderly.

It took place a few hours after a mass rally in Hyde Park, which climaxed the annual Easter march to London from Britain's nuclear weapons arsenal at Aldermaston, 50 miles southwest of the capital. Police estimated more than 40,000 people, including many sightseers enjoying the Easter holiday sunshine, attended the rally.

A few punches flew as counter-demonstrators shouted "Go back to Moscow" and "Keep the bomb."

Canon John Collins of St. Paul's Cathedral, leader of the British campaign for nuclear disarmament, later led thousands of supporters to the U.S. Embassy where he handed in a letter for President Kennedy. The letter appealed to Kennedy to abandon holding nuclear tests in the atmosphere.

Collins then drove to the Soviet Embassy where he handed in another letter addressed to Premier Khrushchev. It reminded Khrushchev that British ban-the-bomb groups had protested Russia's resumption of nuclear tests last year and urged him to withdraw his threat to carry out more tests if the Americans do so.

A third letter went to Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

Ex-Con Admits Killing Girl, 15

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — A young ex-convict confessed Monday that he hired a pretty teenager as a baby sitter, drove her to a lonely road and killed her when she resisted his advances.

Kenneth M. Slyter, 26, an exterminator, tried to kill himself by gulping down DDT mixed with kerosene when he found police closing in on him. He was rushed to a hospital and later was released and jailed on murder charges.

Police said Slyter, whose wife has one child and is pregnant, led 15-year-old Sandra Holderfield to believe he needed a baby sitter in what he said was his fashionable home. He came by her house in a stolen car Saturday night, picked her up, and drove straight to a lonely dirt road north of Jackson.

Detective Chief M. B. Pierce said Slyter had not been questioned thoroughly about what took place but said Sandra apparently put up a fierce struggle. Pierce said Slyter admitted clubbing her in the face with a tire tool and running over her with a car.

No Trace Is Found Of Plane, 31 Aboard

BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI) —A combined sea and air search off northwestern Colombia Monday failed to turn up any trace of a missing Colombian DC3 transport with 31 persons aboard.

The twin-engined plane disappeared Sunday during a regularly-scheduled flight between Bahia Solano and Quibdo. Its route was mostly over water.

RFK Suggests U.S. 'Salesmen' Be Sent Abroad

NEW YORK (AP)—Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy advocates dispatch abroad of articulate Americans to preach the facts of free life to all nations.

In a speech Monday at the annual meeting of The Associated Press, the President's younger brother said that on his recent trip around the world he encountered much misinformation and misunderstanding about the American way of life.

"We have a great problem," he continued, "but we have a great opportunity and, in my judgment, unless we are able in the next decade to convince the people of foreign countries—and particularly the students—that we are true to our ideals and that prosperity and decent health can be achieved in a system that preserves individual liberty, we will lose the cold war no matter how much money we spend on aid."

"Capitalism has become a dirty word because it is synonymous with selfishness. Many people in foreign lands believe that Americans are interested only in material gains, that they are not interested in their neighbors, not interested in their communities and not interested in those that are less well off," he said.

To offset this impression abroad, Kennedy suggested sending Americans—senators, Cabinet members, congressmen, governors, university professors, playwrights and poets—to all nations.

"These individuals should make tours of as many universities as possible and should confer with labor leaders, farm and cooperative leaders, newspaper editors, businessmen and government officials, as well as students," he said.

The object, the attorney general declared, would be to help those abroad "know the facts about us and our way of life."

Passport Revocation Hearings Open Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department announced Monday it will start its first passport revocation hearings Tuesday under its new regulations barring passports to Communists.

The first case will be that of Elizabeth Gurly Flynn, 71, whom the Justice Department has identified as national chairman of the Communist party of the United States.

Press officer Lincoln White said the State Department hearing would be closed to newsmen although, under the department's regulation, no evidence can be used in revoking a passport except that which can be presented to the person whose passport has been denied.

Plan Would Cut Huge Stockpile By Defense Use

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate subcommittee proposed Monday that the government dispose of billions of dollars worth of surplus material by channeling it to defense contractors for conversion into military supplies.

Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., chairman of an Armed Services subcommittee which is investigating the nation's stockpile of strategic materials, outlined the plan in a statement at the start of public hearings.

"We are recommending to the President that in order to reduce these tremendous inventories, payment for various materials purchased by the Defense Department for the current multibillion defense program be made at least in part by the government's furnishing those materials to the supplier in question which would be necessary for that supplier to have in order to fill the order in question," he said.

Subcommittee counsel R. C. Coburn said that, as an example, the government could provide rubber to a defense contractor who makes military tires and tubes. The price of the raw rubber would be deducted from the amount the government paid for the tires and tubes.

Coast Guard Gets New Commander

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President Kennedy picked Vice Adm. Edwin J. Roland Monday as commandant of the U.S. Coast Guard.

The Palm Beach White House announced also Kennedy would address graduation exercises at the U.S. Military Academy on June 6. The President spoke at the Naval Academy's commencement last June.

MOSCOW (UPI) — The sixth Supreme Soviet — Russia's version of a parliament — convened behind the Kremlin walls Monday but adjourned until Tuesday after only an hour of organizing ceremonies. Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev attended but did not speak.

Lines Drawn For Senate Vote Literacy Test Clash

WASHINGTON (AP)—Opposing sides gathered their forces Monday night for the impending start of a Senate debate that could develop into another prolonged civil rights battle.

Democratic leaders said they would move to call up Tuesday the Kennedy-backed, voter literacy test bill and push it through to a showdown.

Southern senators took up positions against the measure, with every indication they were prepared to wage another all-out filibuster, if necessary, to defeat it.

Even before the battle was joined, Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., took the floor during a brief session Monday to denounce the bill as unconstitutional.

With an oblique reference to the Southerners' favorite tactic against civil rights bills — prolonged oratory — Stennis said he had no doubt the literacy test bill would be "discussed at great length—fully."

The measure would provide that a sixth-grade education be the maximum literacy requirement to qualify any person to vote in a federal election.

Stennis contended the states, and not Congress, are specifically empowered to fix voter qualifications. He said that if the administration bill should pass and be upheld in the courts it would mean, if effect, the written Constitution was gone.

On the other hand, Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., a civil rights leader, said over the weekend that passage of the literacy test bill was the very least Congress ought to do. He and other supporters of the bill say Congress is fully empowered to protect voting rights.

'Rollers' Cavort At White House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Thousands of children, some dressed as bunnies, cavorted Monday on the backyard of the White House at the traditional Easter Monday egg roll. The lawn was left littered with broken egg shells.

Many of the youngsters and their parents expressed disappointment that four-year-old Caroline Kennedy and her baby brother John Jr. did not attend the festivities. The Kennedy children are with President and Mrs. Kennedy in Palm Beach, Fla.

Caroline's playhouse, swing and a sliding board down from her tree house were fenced off from the crowd but were a principal attraction for the egg rollers and their parents.

One child pointed out to her mother, "she even has a punching bag."

The mother replied, "Caroline got to keep in shape."

The black and white punching bag seemed to be a new addition to Caroline's play area.

Extra guards were on duty to handle the crowds that began surging through the gates at 8 a.m. EST.

Third Warrant Is Issued In Huntington Burglary

Not Policeman But Identity Undisclosed

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP)—A third warrant was issued Monday in the Saturday night burglary of a Huntington department store in which a city police lieutenant and another man were implicated.

Detective Chief Herman Frazier declined to identify the third person. He emphasized that the suspect was not a policeman.

Arrested and charged with breaking and entering in the case were Police Lt. Bernard Tomlinson, 36, and Edward Bays, 40.

Meanwhile, police searched for $350 in marked money which was in the $1,100 taken from the unlocked safe of the T. A. Nasser Store. Frazier said a liberal reward would be paid to the finder of the missing money.

Police said $345 in marked money was found on Bays at the time of his arrest. Police said Bays has a record of arrests on charges of felonious assault, operating a disorderly house and operating a gaming room.

The arrests were made after conversations from the police cruiser driven by Tomlinson were monitored from a transistor radio transmitter hidden in the roof of the car, Frazier said.

Tomlinson and Bays are free on bonds of $5,000 each, pending preliminary hearings set for May 9.

Apportionment Constitutional Ruling Ordered

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court told state courts Monday that they have the authority to rule on claims that distribution of state legislative seats violates the federal Constitution.

Directing Michigan's Supreme Court to rule in such a case, the high tribunal thus added a footnote to its March 26 landmark decision that federal courts may rule on the same issue.

But the unsigned, 7-1 decision, which gave no reasons, seemed to put the state courts on notice not to duck the constitutional questions involved.

It was explained in a concurring opinion, by Justices Tom C. Clark and Potter Stewart, in these words:

"Today's order simply reflects our belief that the Michigan Supreme Court should be the first to consider the merits of the federal constitutional claim, free from any doubts as to its justiciability."

The state tribunal in 1960 dismissed a suit by August Scholle, acting as an individual and as president of the Michigan State AFL-CIO.

Scholle charged that 1952 amendments to the Michigan constitution revamping districts violated the federal Constitution's guarantees of equal protection. He said the law wiped out a requirement of periodic reapportionment and, with but two changes, "perpetually froze the unconstitutional malapportionment that existed at its enactment."

Justice John M. Harlan, dissenting in sharp words with the decision, took issue with the majority's instruction to the Michigan tribunal to act in the light of last month's ruling in the Tennessee reapportionment case.

Harlan said the March 26 decision merely centered on establishing the federal court's right to decide reapportionment disputes. The majority in that case, he said, studiously avoided the federal constitutional question on which the present case turns—which is fair distribution of legislative seats.

Halt To Congress Junk Mail Sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., asked the Senate Monday to amend a House-passed appropriations bill to stop the circulation of congressional junk mail.

As the bill passed the House, it provided that members of Congress could send out under their franking privilege mail addressed only to "occupant."

Williams told the Senate his amendment, which will be called up when the appropriations bill comes before the Senate later, would require Congress members to put names and addresses on all franked mail.

Ike Had Misgivings Over U2 Spy Flights In 1955

NEW YORK (AP)—Five years before Francis Gary Powers crashed in the Soviet Union, then-President Dwight D. Eisenhower expressed misgivings about just such an event involving a U2 spy plane, Look magazine said Monday.

Eisenhower expressed those fears at the time he approved the U2 program in 1955, Look said. The article quoted friends of the President as saying Eisenhower told his advisers then: "If one of these planes is shot down, this is going to be on my head. I'm going to catch hell. The world will be in a mess."

The Soviet Union wouldn't disclose it, Look quoted the advisers as having replied, because the Soviets wouldn't "run the risk of being humiliated by the revelation that their [illegible]s had been invaded repeatedly."

The magazine said the President was not convinced. They would protest, he felt, because that would be the only way to stop the flights.

Nevertheless, Eisenhower approved the flights.

But three years later — two years before Powers' plane went down on May 1, 1960—Eisenhower disclosed continued misgivings about the project in a conversation with his press secretary, James Hagerty, Look said, adding: He told Hagerty he often had asked the Central Intelligence Agency, "What happens if you're caught?" But the CIA always replied, "It hasn't happened yet."

"Sent North" Negro Declines $100 Week Job

NEW YORK (AP)—An unemployed Negro sent here from Louisiana by a segregationist group said Monday he had decided to accept a job as a $100-a-week handyman and freight loader.

Louis Boyd, who arrived from New Orleans Saturday with his wife and eight children, told of his new opportunity at a news conference sponsored by the Urban League of New York.

Dr. Edward Lewis, executive director of the league, said Boyd would work for Medical Development, Inc., a Jersey City, N.J., company being organized to manufacture electronics equipment.

The Citizens Council of New Orleans gave the Boyd family one-way bus tickets and $50 in traveling expenses for the trip to New York. The council is promoting a plan to "send Negroes north." It says its offer has resulted in more applications than it can handle.

Lewis said the council plan was a publicity stunt and said the Negroes who accept the offer would be "just like other immigrants who are escaping from oppression and injustice."

Boyd worked as a longshoreman in New Orleans for 20 years until he became ill and later lost his job. He and his family now are living in a hotel suite provided free by a Manhattan hotel.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York joined other city and state officials who have criticized the action of the segregationist group.

"The whole situation runs counter to our belief in the dignity and worth of the individual," Rockefeller said in a statement. "It violates every fundamental concept that we believe in as a people."

Historic Negro Church Burns

PRESTON, Md. (AP) — Fire swept through an historic 75-year-old Negro church near here late Monday, completely destroying the frame building and an adjacent parish house.

Firemen were forced back by the intense heat from the burning structure, and had to limit their efforts to saving several nearby houses. Flames at one time were leaping 150 feet into the air. The heat was so intense, a neighboring wheat field was set on fire as well as woods surrounding the burning buildings.

The church, known as the Mt. Pleasant Methodist Church, stood on the same site as the old Marsh Quaker Meeting House, which had been built in the early 1700s. The meeting house was destroyed by fire more than 100 years ago.

Even while the fire was burning, white citizens of Preston were offering aid in the form of voluntary labor and money to rebuild the church.

Man Dies When Crane Boom Hits Power Line

ADELPHI, Md. (AP)—One man was killed and another injured when the boom of a crane hit a power line Monday. Both were employed by the Prince Georges County Department of Public Works.

The dead man was identified as Russell H. Stewart, 26, of Upper Marlboro, and the injured man as Norris T. Dean, 43, of Landover.

Patriotism Is Acts, Not Words, JFK Says

NEW YORK (UPI)—President Kennedy said Monday he is not impressed when he hears people saying they are more American than anyone else because patriotism is doing, not saying.

In an article written especially for Scripps-Howard newspapers, Kennedy said words count only "as they express reality."

"Some people think that patriotism is what people say," he wrote. "In my view, it is what people do . . . when I see people doing the brave and selfless things which the astronauts, the Peace Corps, the men and women in the armed services and so many young Americans are doing today, and which Americans have done for their people and nation for many generations, then I am impressed and moved."

Cats' Tax Solution Taxes Ingenuity

CHICAGO (UPI)—Illinois Atty. Gen. William G. Clark announced with apparent relief Monday a solution in the case of the taxable cats.

Clark said the five cats of Mrs. Margaret Montgomery, who died in 1960, were assessed $242.23 in inheritance taxes.

The taxes were assessed after consultation with a veterinarian, who reported the average life span of a Chicago cat to be 10 years.

Flat Nose, age 9, was assessed $181.83. Clark said the tax was based on a life expectancy of 11 years because of the good care he had received.

Big Boy, Brother Cat, Blue Eyes and Mommy Kitty, each 12 years old, were assessed only $15.10 each because of their advanced age.

Mrs. Montgomery left her estate, valued at $13,086, in trust for her cats.

MRS. GOLDMAN FINDS PHONE SAVES 21 HOURS OF TIME AND TRAVEL IN TWO WEEKS

Mrs. Daniel Goldman, of Baltimore, recently completed a two-week "diary" of her family's telephone calls. For each call she also estimated the amount of time, travel and money that was saved by telephoning. At the end of two weeks, the Goldmans' telephone diary showed savings of 21 valuable hours, 293 miles of travel and $22.38.

Mrs. Goldman, who is the mother of four young children (all under ten years) and is active in charitable and community affairs, finds her telephone invaluable. She says, "I don't think our family could accomplish two-thirds of the things we do without the telephone."

MRS. GOLDMAN FINDS PHONE SAVES 21 HOURS OF TIME AND TRAVEL IN TWO WEEKS

Mrs. Daniel Goldman, of Baltimore, recently completed a two-week "diary" of her family's telephone calls. For each call she also estimated the amount of time, travel and money that was saved by telephoning. At the end of two weeks, the Goldmans' telephone diary showed savings of 21 valuable hours, 293 miles of travel and $22.38.

Mrs. Goldman, who is the mother of four young children (all under ten years) and is active in charitable and community affairs, finds her telephone invaluable. She says, "I don't think our family could accomplish two-thirds of the things we do without the telephone."

What would a telephone diary show in your home? You'd probably find, too, that your phone does far more for you . . . than the little it costs.

Maryland Reapportioning Advocate Hails Decision

BALTIMORE (AP) — A second Supreme Court decision Monday ordering complaints to be heard against apportionment in state legislatures was hailed by a Maryland advocate for revision.

"This means the last horse is shot from under the opponents of reapportionment in Maryland," declared Alfred L. Scanlan. He is counsel for the Committee for Fair Representation.

The committee has pending before the Maryland Court of Appeals a case to require the Anne Arundel Circuit Court to consider whether the Maryland Legislature is apportioned unfairly.

The U.S. Supreme Court directed the Michigan Supreme Court to listen to a similar argument. The U.S. court on March 27 also had directed a special federal court in Tennessee to receive a similar complaint.

Scanlan declared the Michigan case "was much more like our own suit in Maryland" than in Tennessee

For one thing, the Michigan case originated in a state court instead of federal.

The Michigan case sought to challenge makeup of the state senate while the one in Tennessee was aimed only at the house. The Maryland Committee seeks reapportionment based on up-to-date population in both the house and senate.

The Maryland Committee argues that voters are even less represented in the Senate in many instances than in the House. All 23 counties have one senator each regardless of size while the number of delegates ranges from two to six.

Doctor Says JFK Has Misled Public

BALTIMORE (AP) — The secretary of Maryland's medical society said Monday the Kennedy administration has misled the public about organized medicine's poposition to care of the aged through Social Security.

Dr. William C. Ebeling, secretary of the Medical and Chirurgical Faculty, wrote President Kennedy that contrary to statements made to the press when 27 physicians met with the President March 27, the medical societies of 50 states - including Maryland — have disapproved the plan.

Dr. Ebeling asked Kennedy for "the equal right to send a representative delegation" to meet with the President on the same issue.

Truck's Big Load Forces Detour

EASTON, Md. (AP) — A small army will make a flanking move Tuesday to get across the Choptank River with a boiler.

This is no ordinary crab steamer. The boiler weighs 27 tons.

A Baltimore trucking company has been stymied in Easton since last Thursday trying to deliver the boiler to a canning plant at Snow Hill in Worcester County.

The usual way is down Route 50 to Salisbury. Arthur Thompson, the truck driver, rumbled down the route last week and was three-quarters of the way across the Choptank River Bridge at Cambridge when progress halted.

The load was too high to pass under the overhead girders. Thompson backed off and returned to Easton for a new approach.

He'll set off Tuesday on Route 331, a winding secondary road that crosses the Choptank at a narrower spot at Tanyard.

The bridge there is reported to have enough clearance for the mammoth load.

Stops Constipation Due to "Aging Colon"

New laxative discovery re-creates 3 essentials of normal regularity

As you grow older, the internal muscles of your colon wall also age, lose the strength that propels waste from the body. Stagnant bowel contents become so dry and shrunken that they fail to stimulate the urge to purge.

Relief, doctors say, lies in a new laxative principle. Old-style bulks and moisteners may create gas, take 3 or 4 days for relief. Old-style salts and drugs frequently cramp and gripe. Of all leading laxatives, only new COLONAID gives you its special 3-way relief that works only on the lower colon (area of constipation).

(1) COLONAID prevents the formation of dry, hardened waste for easy passage without pain or strain. (2) COLONAID'S unique rebulking action helps retone flabby colon muscles. (3) And COLONAID acts gently on the nerve reflexes that stimulate the vital "mass movement" of your lower colon.

COLONAID relieves even chronic constipation overnight; is so gentle it was hospital proved safe even for expectant mothers. And COLONAID won't interfere with absorption of vitamins or other food nutrients. Get COLONAID today! INTRODUCTORY SIZE 43¢

BALTIMORE (AP) — Raymond Kerley, 21, died Monday in a futile effort to save his family, including two babies, from their burning home in suburban Dundalk.

His wife and mother-in-law already had escaped with the two girls, aged 14 months and 3 years.

EDGEWATER, Md. (AP) — Police Capt. Elmer Hagner said Monday that Mrs. Ruth F. Burton, 46, of Alexandria, Va., apparently drowned after falling from a boat docked at the Rose Haven Yacht Club.

Her 47-year-old husband, Warren, found the body floating in Chesapeake Bay near their cruiser.

HAGERSTOWN (AP) — A farm equipment salesman died [illegible] when his mattress caught fire in his fourth-floor apartment.

Robert E. Morrison, 39, was asphyxiated by the smoke from the mattress, which smoldered until it was destroyed.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Funeral services for Charles Terry Crossfield, board chairman of the Commercial Credit Corp., will be held Wednesday at Towson, Md.

Crossfield died Sunday in Union Memorial Hospital at the age of 55. He was born in Owensboro, Ky., and attended school in Lexington, East Orange, N.J., and Fulton, Mo., before being graduated from William and Mary College.

LaVale Club To Elect New Officers

New officers will be elected by LaVale Country Club at its meeting today at 8 p.m. in the fellowship hall of LaVale Methodist Church, according to Mrs. Ray Dickerson, president.

Mrs. C. M. Sanner, chairman of the nominating committee, presented the slate of officers at the March meeting. They are Mrs. Dickerson, president; Mrs. William F. Baker, vice-president; Mrs. William W. Hoover, second vice-president; Mrs. W. M. Wilson, recording secretary; Mrs. Bert A. Mason, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Harold W. Francis, treasurer, and Mrs. Floyd V. Cozad, director.

Nominations will also be accepted from the floor.

Mrs. David Whitworth, program chairman, will introduce Miss Shirley Zampelli, instructor at Frostburg State Teachers College, who will speak on "Modern Art."

Hostesses for the meeting are Mrs. Miles Thompson Jr., chairman; Mrs. C. M. Sanners, Mrs. Tom S. Brown Jr., Mrs. Lawrence F. Grina, Mrs. Robert J. Sutton and Mrs. Kenneth Wolf.

Musicale Series Final Set Sunday

The First Presbyterian Church will present the final Musicale in the current series Sunday at 7:30 p. m.

The Oratorio "Judas Maccabeus" will be sung by the Sanctuary Choir of the Church, assisted by members of the St. Mark's United Church of Christ choir, under the direction of Harold Hanson, guest conductor.

Soloists are Mrs. Russell Fink, soprano; Mrs. John Zornig, alto; Clyde Bantz, tenor, and Kenneth Wilson, bass. Wayne Lenke will be at the organ, and Miss Marna Pyle will assist on the cello.

The text of "Judas Maccabaeus" is taken from portions of The Apocrypha and relates the story of the struggle of the Maccabees to maintain their religious and intellectual freedom under the decadent reign of the early Syrian kings.

Heed Five Decorating Stop Signs

You would not think of putting a stop sign in your home!

But there are five stop signs in decorating your house which it would be wise to heed, advises Miss Elizabeth Langsdale, extension home furnishings specialist, University of Maryland.

First, stop short of using too much of anything, including too much furniture in one room, too much pattern, too much strong color, too many dramatic effects.

"Second," says Miss Langsdale, "Stop short of matching everything—style, color, pattern, texture. To blend is more effective and more fun."

Next, stop short of fads. Home decorating usually needs to be lasting. Complete redecorating is too costly to do often.

Fourth, stop at the level of elegance that you can afford to maintain. Furnishings lose their beauty when soiled or damaged.

"Fifth," concludes Miss Langsdale, "Stop before you start!" Know what you are doing. Work with a plan so that each change you make will contribute to a visual counterpoint between background and furnishings. Each should complete the other to create unity and to materialize the scheme you are trying to achieve.

The Republic of Indonesia ranks as Southeast Asia's biggest, most populous nation. Its 92 million people represent a dozen ethnic groups, scattered across some 3,000 equatorial islands. At the end of 1960, only 10,000 Dutch citizens were left in this former colonial possession of the Netherlands.

Sun and fog sometimes cause a mountaineer to see a ghostly companion below or beside him. It is his own enormously enlarged shadow which the sun casts on a drifting fog bank. The fright caused by this phenomenon, known as the "Brocken specter," has endangered many experienced climbers.

Couple Will Mark Golden Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard W. Robinson will observe their 50th wedding anniversary with a reception to be given by their children Sunday in the fellowship room of Living Stone Church of the Brethren, corner North Cedar Street and Second Street, from 2 to 4:30 p.m.

The former Miss Mary N. Ravenscrotf, daughter of the late Gibson A. and Cora (Ward) Ravenscroft, Westernport, became the bride of Bernard W. Robinson, son of the late Willis and Olivia (Burress) Robinson, Spotsylvania County, Va., April 30, 1912. The ceremony was solemnized in the parsonage of the Central Methodist Church with Rev. Joseph H. Balthis, minister, officiating. Mrs. E. R. Spriggs and Miss Hattie Kidd were witnesses.

Mr. Robinson retired in 1955 as a pipefitter for the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company after 40 years service.

Mr. and Mrs. Robinson are members of the Second Baptist Church. Mrs. Robinson now serves as teacher of the Swanson Memorial Bible Class, and served as superintendent of the Junior Department of the Sunday School for many years. She is a member of McKinley Chapter No. 12, Order of the Eastern Star.

Mr. and Mrs. Robinson, who reside at 405 Arch Street, are the parents of four children, Harry B., Wantagh, Long Island, N. Y.; Kenneth E. Robinson, city; Donald A. Robinson, Eckhart, and Mrs. Elinor M. Umstot, city. They have 9 grandchildren.

No formal invitations have been issued, but all friends of the family are invited to attend.

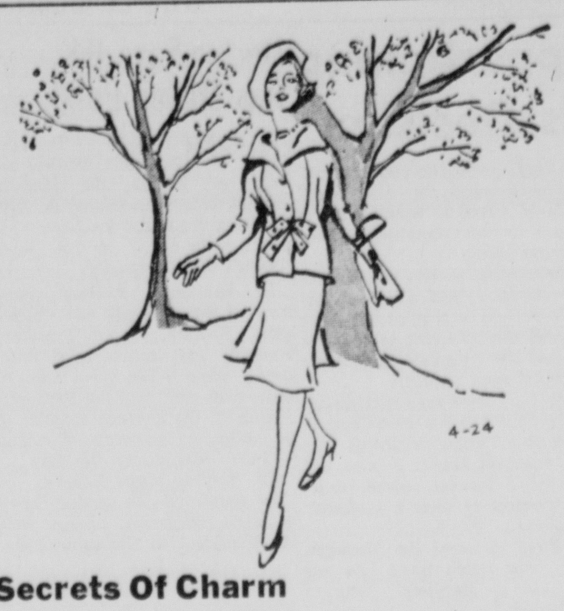
Re Temple will also hold a rehearsal for the May ceremonial Thursday at 8 p. m. at Shrine Country Club. All officers and units are to attend.



Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Replace Bad Habits With Grace-Makers

Just consider for a minute the figure you make when you let your arms droop, pulling your shoulders forward and in turn creating hollows in your chest. If you let your arms flog, they set up a waggle in the shoulders and distort your contuors from every angle. Any kind of improper arm management not only destroys your figure lines but also ruins the slick effect of even the best-designed clothes.

To be fair to yourself, use a little self-training to prune such bad carriage habits. Whenever you walk, concentrate on these positions and movements of your arms, until they become second nature:

1. Keep shoulder joints in a direct line with your thighs joints. You'll know they are if while standing still your palms line up with your thigh joints.

2. Your elbows, wrists and fingers should be neither stiff nor limp, but relaxed at all times.

3. Make sure your arms swing no further and no less than the length of your step (remember your step should approximate the length of your foot.) And be sure that with each swing, your fingers lightly brush your body.

4. The next consideration is your coordination. Your right arm must swing forward with your left foot and your left arm forward with your right foot. Elementary as this seems, a surprising number of people through their faulty coordination err in this matter and are entirely unaware that they do. Check to see whether you are one of them.

5. When you carry a purse or parcel, be sure the burdened arm is pulled up to waist level and the shoulder is neither hunched nor pulled downward.

The princesses will take part in the coronation of Queen Shenandoah, Miss Patricia Anne Godfrey, May 3 and also will ride on floats in the Grand Feature Parade, May 4.

Woman's Civic Club Plans Election In May

A slate of officers for the coming year was presented at a meeting of Woman's Civic Club Thursday at the Washington Street club house. Mrs. Ralph Isiminger presided at the business session.

The program was in charge of the Art Group with Mrs. Arch M. Hutcheson and Mrs. Newton T. Evans, co-chairmen.

Theodore P. Foote, Supervisor of Art Education for Allegany County School was guest speaker. His topic was "Do You Remember?", and he followed his talk with a musical quiz.

The slate of officers was represented by the nominating committee of which Mrs. Albert D. Heacox is chairman. Other members are Mrs. Robert Gerson, Mrs. Lawrence Brown, Mrs. William A. Douglas and Mrs. Edward D. Dove. An election will be held at the May meeting.

Nominated are Mrs. Benjamin R. Lewis, president; Mrs. Seth W. Harter, first vice president; Mrs. John R. McVeigh, second vice president; Mrs. Raymond MacDonald, recording secretary; Mrs. Robert S. Wilkins, treasurer, and Mrs. Joseph M. Miller, financial secretary. For directors, Mrs. George G. Young and Mrs. Douglas, four year terms, and Mrs. Heacox and Mrs. Dove, two year terms.

Seven new members were introduced. They are Mrs. Howard S. Brady, Mrs. Robert J. Grasley, Mrs. Lester Kiefer, Mrs. Ronald Rosher, Mrs. Paul T. Roy, Mrs. Francis Murphy and Mrs. H. I. Walton.

The Ways and Means committee announced plans to hold a gourmet food sale at the annual meeting May 17 at the club house. Members may bring prospective members as their guests.

Mrs. Lewis and Mrs. Harter were named delegates to the annual convention of Maryland Federation of Women's Club in Baltimore April 29, 30 and May 1. Announcement was also made of the annual board meeting of First District of Maryland Federation of Women's Clubs at Will of the Wisp Restaurant, Deep Creek Lake, May 9.

The cluub received a citation from the General Federation for entering the organization's Community Improvement Program contest. The local club's project was Camp Tioga, Girl Scout camp.

Mrs. Isiminger and Mrs. Harter presided at the tea following the program.

Heed Five Decorating Stop Signs

You would not think of putting a stop sign in your home!

But there are five stop signs in decorating your house which it would be wise to heed, advises Miss Elizabeth Langsdale, extension home furnishings specialist, University of Maryland.

First, stop short of using too much of anything, including too much furniture in one room, too much pattern, too much strong color, too many dramatic effects.

"Second," says Miss Langsdale, "Stop short of matching everything—style, color, pattern, texture. To blend is more effective and more fun."

Next, stop short of fads. Home decorating usually needs to be lasting. Complete redecorating is too costly to do often.

Fourth, stop at the level of elegance that you can afford to maintain. Furnishings lose their beauty when soiled or damaged.

"Fifth," concludes Miss Langsdale, "Stop before you start!" Know what you are doing. Work with a plan so that each change you make will contribute to a visual counterpoint between background and furnishings. Each should complete the other to create unity and to materialize the scheme you are trying to achieve.

Blasts Heard In Eastern Part Of County

Three blasts which reportedly rocked the eastern section of Allegany County yesterday morning remain a mystery to authorities.

They said last night there were at least three blasts which were heard and felt about 6:30 a.m.

State Police were unable to learn the origin of the blasts felt in the vicinity of the east slope of Polish Mountain.

It was surmised they may have stemmed from a construction project in that part of the county.

Alcoholic Beverage Permits Being Issued

Alcoholic beverage licenses for the coming year are now being issued at the office of the Allegany County Board of Alcoholic License Commissioners at the Court House.

The new licenses must be picked up prior to May 1. Some 280 applications were received by the Board which held hearings on April 18 at the Court House.

Paper Sack Garbage Plan Suggested

A film explaining the use of paper bags for garbage collections will be shown in City Hall auditorium May 1, according to Mayor J. Edwin Keech.

He said the plan sponsored by the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company was explained yesterday by Robert C. Petersen, manager of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

Mayor Keech said it "sounds like a wonderful thing" but suggested that the idea be presented first to one of the civic clubs, or that it might be possible to make a two-week test in some section of the city.

Church Elects Vestrymen

Sidney W. George, Dr. R. Rhett Rathbone and Francis H. Sweene were elected to the Vestry of Emmanuel Episcopal Church for three-year terms at the parish's annual congregational meeting last night.

During the meeting, a new scholarship program, to encourage young men from the parish to enter the Episcopal priesthood, was approved after William L. Wilson, junior warden, submitted a resolution calling for its establishment.

As amended young men from the parish studying in any Episcopal seminary, may receive up to $1,500 a year in scholarship aid from the parish. The funds will come from the income of the church's endowment fund.

Rev. H. M. Richardson, rector, and his assistant, Rev. August W. Peters Jr., submitted reports as did the heads of a number of parish organizations.

At the conclusion of the meeting, the Vestry met and re-elected all four parish officers. They are George F. Hazelwood, senior warden; Mr. Wilson, junior warden; Thomas N. Berry, register, and Henry W. Price, treasurer. Holdover vestrymen who still have one or two years remaining in their terms include John Bestwick, Robert Little Ebert, John E. Geare, W. Eric Gibbs, Harry Nelson and Guy O. Thompson.

Extreme Fire Hazard Cited In District

An extreme fire hazard is now prevalent in the four westernmost counties of Maryland, warns W. A. C. Irwin, district forester.

Mr. Irwin is appealing to the public to observe all burning regulations in the current fire season which opened in March and will end next month.

The high winds yesterday in the midst of the continued dry spell has caused the fire hazard to become extreme, he said.

He reported yesterday that quite a bit of land was scorched in a fire on Big Savage Mountain Sunday.

Dr. Richard Mayer of Allegany Ballistics will speak on "Way Out" at the weekly meeting of the Cumberland Lions Club tomorrow at 12:15 p.m. at Central YMCA.

SRC Buys Land

Christos and Bessie P. Parsoudis, 414 Lehigh Street, have sold property on that street to the State Roads Commission, a deed filed yesterday in the Allegany County Court House, indicates.

COPE Unit To Plan For Primary

The COPE committee of the Western Maryland Central Labor Council, AFL-CIO, will meet Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. in the Allegany Labor Temple.

Andrew Lewis, COPE chairman, will preside and urged all COPE representatives from the 22 affiliated locals to attend.

Plans for participation in the May 15 state and county primary election will be made at the meeting, Mr. Lewis said.

The planning will include such practical steps as planning for workers and cars at the primary and providing funds to do the work.

The council recently endorsed candidates in contested posts in the primary.

Mr. Lewis said plans may be made to have Carlton R. Sickles, candidate for congressman-at-large, and George P. Mahoney, gubernatorial candidate, meet with council officials early in May.

Centennial Head Speaks In Romney Today

ROMNEY — Carl R. Sullivan, executive director of the West Virginia Centennial Commission, will speak at a dinner meeting tonight at the American Legion Home.

The dinner is being sponsored by the Hampshire County Committee for the state centennial and will begin at 6:15 p. m.

Sullivan's mother was voted "Mother Of the Year" for 1961 in West Virginia.

Sullivan is a native of West Virginia, born and raised at Pennsboro in Ritchie County where his father was principal of Pennsboro High School. He holds a B. S. degree in Forestry from West Virginia University and received his M. S. in Hydrobiology from Ohio State University.

He was a research biologist with the West Virginia Conservation Commission, Division of Fish Management, for five years.

He is presently on leave of absense from Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Corporation. He has worked for that company for five years at Ravenswood as Land Manager and Public Relations Manager.

Sullivan is chairman of the Tree Farm Program in West Virginia and vice president of the Little Kanawha Regional Council. He served on the West Virginia Conservation Advisory Commission until it was superseded last summer.

Sullivan will discuss the West Virginia Centennial and the role that Hampshire County can play in its celebration next year.

Serves With Marines

Pfc. George F. Wilson, USMC, son of Mrs. Mary E. Wilson, 209 Maryland Avenue, is serving with the Second Marine Division, observed by President John F. Kennedy during a two-day visit recently to the Atlantic Fleet in Norfolk, Va.

To Distribute Food

Surplus commodities will be distributed tomorrow at the City Building in Ridgeley from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Eligible persons are asked to bring their own containers.

Blasts Heard In Eastern Part Of County

Three blasts which reportedly rocked the eastern section of Allegany County yesterday morning remain a mystery to authorities.

They said last night there were at least three blasts which were heard and felt about 6:30 a.m.

State Police were unable to learn the origin of the blasts felt in the vicinity of the east slope of Polish Mountain.

It was surmised they may have stemmed from a construction project in that part of the county.

Alcoholic Beverage Permits Being Issued

Alcoholic beverage licenses for the coming year are now being issued at the office of the Allegany County Board of Alcoholic License Commissioners at the Court House.

The new licenses must be picked up prior to May 1. Some 280 applications were received by the Board which held hearings on April 18 at the Court House.

Paper Sack Garbage Plan Suggested

A film explaining the use of paper bags for garbage collections will be shown in City Hall auditorium May 1, according to Mayor J. Edwin Keech.

He said the plan sponsored by the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company was explained yesterday by Robert C. Petersen, manager of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

Mayor Keech said it "sounds like a wonderful thing" but suggested that the idea be presented first to one of the civic clubs, or that it might be possible to make a two-week test in some section of the city.

Church Elects Vestrymen

Sidney W. George, Dr. R. Rhett Rathbone and Francis H. Sweene were elected to the Vestry of Emmanuel Episcopal Church for three-year terms at the parish's annual congregational meeting last night.

During the meeting, a new scholarship program, to encourage young men from the parish to enter the Episcopal priesthood, was approved after William L. Wilson, junior warden, submitted a resolution calling for its establishment.

As amended young men from the parish studying in any Episcopal seminary, may receive up to $1,500 a year in scholarship aid from the parish. The funds will come from the income of the church's endowment fund.

Rev. H. M. Richardson, rector, and his assistant, Rev. August W. Peters Jr., submitted reports as did the heads of a number of parish organizations.

At the conclusion of the meeting, the Vestry met and re-elected all four parish officers. They are George F. Hazelwood, senior warden; Mr. Wilson, junior warden; Thomas N. Berry, register, and Henry W. Price, treasurer. Holdover vestrymen who still have one or two years remaining in their terms include John Bestwick, Robert Little Ebert, John E. Geare, W. Eric Gibbs, Harry Nelson and Guy O. Thompson.

Extreme Fire Hazard Cited In District

An extreme fire hazard is now prevalent in the four westernmost counties of Maryland, warns W. A. C. Irwin, district forester.

Mr. Irwin is appealing to the public to observe all burning regulations in the current fire season which opened in March and will end next month.

The high winds yesterday in the midst of the continued dry spell has caused the fire hazard to become extreme, he said.

He reported yesterday that quite a bit of land was scorched in a fire on Big Savage Mountain Sunday.

To Address Club

Dr. Richard Mayer of Allegany Ballistics will speak on "Way Out" at the weekly meeting of the Cumberland Lions Club tomorrow at 12:15 p.m. at Central YMCA.

SRC Buys Land

Christos and Bessie P. Parsoudis, 414 Lehigh Street, have sold property on that street to the State Roads Commission, a deed filed yesterday in the Allegany County Court House, indicates.

COPE Unit To Plan For Primary

The COPE committee of the Western Maryland Central Labor Council, AFL-CIO, will meet Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. in the Allegany Labor Temple.

Andrew Lewis, COPE chairman, will preside and urged all COPE representatives from the 22 affiliated locals to attend.

Plans for participation in the May 15 state and county primary election will be made at the meeting, Mr. Lewis said.

The planning will include such practical steps as planning for workers and cars at the primary and providing funds to do the work.

The council recently endorsed candidates in contested posts in the primary.

Mr. Lewis said plans may be made to have Carlton R. Sickles, candidate for congressman-at-large, and George P. Mahoney, gubernatorial candidate, meet with council officials early in May.

JCs Report Interest In City Manager

The Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce yesterday reported increased interest is being shown in the council-manager form of government for this city.

The organization this week will launch a petition drive to have the necessary charter amendments included on the June 19 general election ballot.

Frederick J. Hill, JC president, said interested persons may obtain information on the council-manager plan by contacting him at 724-4381; John David May at 722-3286, or Alan Douglas at 724-4398. Pamphlets explaining the plan will be mailed to those calling, Hill said.

In addition to the telephone service, Hill said the Jaycees have organized a speakers bureau from which members will be assigned to address organizations such as parent-teacher units and church groups who express interest in the city government reorganization project.

Members of the Jaycees already have spoken on the proposal before the Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions clubs, with Hill explaining that individuals from the service clubs have indicated they would support the council-manager plan if it is placed on the ballot.

One organization, the Junior Woman's Civic Club, has gone on record in support of the plan, Hill said.

Approximately 2,000 names from the city's list of qualified voters must be obtained if the Jaycees are to succeed in getting the suggested charter amendments on the general election ballot.

Target date for completion of the petition campaign is May 10, according to John D. May, chairman.

Chief difference between locusts and other grasshoppers is that locusts have shorter antennae. Grasshoppers include all insects called locusts.

ROBERT O. COLLINS

Mental Health Unit Names '62 Chairman

Robert O. Collins, district manager of the People Life Insurance Company, has been named 1962 chairman of the Allegany County Mental Health Drive.

Mental Health Week will be held from April 29 to May 5, while the campaign will continue throughout the month of May.

Mr. Collins said the campaign will be climaxed in this area by the Bell Ringers' March for Mental Health which will be held Tuesday, May 15.

Mr. Colins, who resides at 107 Karns Avenue, is a past president of the Cumberland Optimist Club and also is a member of Centre Street Methodist Church, Life Underwriters Association, Dapper Dan Club, Allegany Beagle Club, Ali Ghan Shrine Club and Ohr Lodge 131, AF & AM.

He is a past instructor for the Life Underwriters Training Counsel and is active in Mt. Royal PTA.

Mr. Collins is married to the former Nell Floyd and they have three children, Mrs. Robbin Sheetz, city; Scott Collins, a student at Capital Radio Engineering Institute, Washington, and Brenda Collins, a student at Allegany High School.

Tennis Courts Asked For West Side

The Recreation Department was authorized yesterday to make a study of possible sites for a tennis court on the West Side.

Street Commissioner John J. Long said other areas of the city have courts but not West Side. He said it might be possible to locate a court in the Riverside Park area.

In answer to a question concerning possible use of the privately-owned former site of the Dingle courts, Long said he had contacted the owner a year ago.

No Meeting Planned On JC Question

A motion for a meeting with sponsors of the council-manager plan to "clarify" certain points in connecion with the proposal, died for want of a second yesterday as the Mayor and Council apparently felt it had stated its position previously.

Finance Commissioner Lucile Roeder made the motion for the meeting saying that some confusion has resulted in the minds of citizens over how the plan will be put into effect and what charter changes will be necessary. She said both the Jaycees and council are concerned about what is best for Cumberland.

John D. May, chairman of the Jaycees council-manager committee, said the Jaycees would be happy to meet with council anytime but have not requested to do so.

May said, however, he did not feel further study necessary in view of the amount of time and effort spent by responsible persons over the past 15 years in drawing up the plan and the more recent effort by the Jaycees and their attorneys.

Water Commissioner G. Ray Light said he could not see what could be accomplished by such a meeting and that nothing council would do could change the Jaycees' minds since they have already started petitioning to get the issue on the ballot.

"I still say as I did last week that they did this in too much of a hurry and acted too quickly," Light said.

Council last week when asked by the Jaycees to approve council-manager amendments for the ballot on June 19, issued a statement in which it said it felt a more thorough study of the proposed changes should be made. It passed an order calling for appointment of a Charter Commission by July this year which would study and report as to the form of government and form of a model charter it recommended by July 1, 1963. Then, council said, the recommendation would be put to referendum in a special election within six months.

The Jaycees contend, however, that previous charter studies are sufficient, that many recommendations made in past charter studies have been put into effect and that the council-manager amendments they are sponsoring meet all the requirements.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech said if council thought the council-manager proposal was ready for the ballot "then we should have put it on the ballot." He added if citizens have quesions, they should go to the Jaycees for answers.

Mrs. Roeder, a supporter of council-manager but who agreed with council's action last week, said she recognized the fact the move was initiated by the Jaycees but that if council feels certain "boundaries" exist in the plan as presented, then they should be explained. Otherwise, he continued, a good movement might be damaged.

Asked by Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming if the Jaycees had requested such a meeting, Mrs. Roeder said they had not.

Street Commissioner John J. Long said if the Jaycees require any information on operation or costs of the street or sewer departments he would be glad to furnish them. He said he was still trying to be democratic about the subject and would be glad to meet with the Jaycees if they so desired.

Mrs. Roeder said she also felt it democratic in trying to get answers to questions which citizens have.

JCs Report Interest In City Manager

The Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce yesterday reported increased interest is being shown in the council-manager form of government for this city.

The organization this week will launch a petition drive to have the necessary charter amendments included on the June 19 general election ballot.

Frederick J. Hill, JC president, said interested persons may obtain information on the council-manager plan by contacting him at 724-4381; John David May at 722-3286, or Alan Douglas at 724-4398. Pamphlets explaining the plan will be mailed to those calling, Hill said.

In addition to the telephone service, Hill said the Jaycees have organized a speakers bureau from which members will be assigned to address organizations such as parent-teacher units and church groups who express interest in the city government reorganization project.

Members of the Jaycees already have spoken on the proposal before the Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions clubs, with Hill explaining that individuals from the service clubs have indicated they would support the council-manager plan if it is placed on the ballot.

One organization, the Junior Woman's Civic Club, has gone on record in support of the plan, Hill said.

Approximately 2,000 names from the city's list of qualified voters must be obtained if the Jaycees are to succeed in getting the suggested charter amendments on the general election ballot.

Target date for completion of the petition campaign is May 10, according to John D. May, chairman.

Chief difference between locusts and other grasshoppers is that locusts have shorter antennae. Grasshoppers include all insects called locusts.

ROBERT O. COLLINS

Mental Health Unit Names '62 Chairman

Robert O. Collins, district manager of the People Life Insurance Company, has been named 1962 chairman of the Allegany County Mental Health Drive.

Mental Health Week will be held from April 29 to May 5, while the campaign will continue throughout the month of May.

Mr. Collins said the campaign will be climaxed in this area by the Bell Ringers' March for Mental Health which will be held Tuesday, May 15.

Mr. Colins, who resides at 107 Karns Avenue, is a past president of the Cumberland Optimist Club and also is a member of Centre Street Methodist Church, Life Underwriters Association, Dapper Dan Club, Allegany Beagle Club, Ali Ghan Shrine Club and Ohr Lodge 131, AF & AM.

He is a past instructor for the Life Underwriters Training Counsel and is active in Mt. Royal PTA.

Mr. Collins is married to the former Nell Floyd and they have three children, Mrs. Robbin Sheetz, city; Scott Collins, a student at Capital Radio Engineering Institute, Washington, and Brenda Collins, a student at Allegany High School.

Tennis Courts Asked For West Side

The Recreation Department was authorized yesterday to make a study of possible sites for a tennis court on the West Side.

Street Commissioner John J. Long said other areas of the city have courts but not West Side. He said it might be possible to locate a court in the Riverside Park area.

In answer to a question concerning possible use of the privately-owned former site of the Dingle courts, Long said he had contacted the owner a year ago.

No Meeting Planned On JC Question

A motion for a meeting with sponsors of the council-manager plan to "clarify" certain points in connecion with the proposal, died for want of a second yesterday as the Mayor and Council apparently felt it had stated its position previously.

Finance Commissioner Lucile Roeder made the motion for the meeting saying that some confusion has resulted in the minds of citizens over how the plan will be put into effect and what charter changes will be necessary. She said both the Jaycees and council are concerned about what is best for Cumberland.

John D. May, chairman of the Jaycees council-manager committee, said the Jaycees would be happy to meet with council anytime but have not requested to do so.

May said, however, he did not feel further study necessary in view of the amount of time and effort spent by responsible persons over the past 15 years in drawing up the plan and the more recent effort by the Jaycees and their attorneys.

Water Commissioner G. Ray Light said he could not see what could be accomplished by such a meeting and that nothing council would do could change the Jaycees' minds since they have already started petitioning to get the issue on the ballot.

"I still say as I did last week that they did this in too much of a hurry and acted too quickly," Light said.

Council last week when asked by the Jaycees to approve council-manager amendments for the ballot on June 19, issued a statement in which it said it felt a more thorough study of the proposed changes should be made. It passed an order calling for appointment of a Charter Commission by July this year which would study and report as to the form of government and form of a model charter it recommended by July 1, 1963. Then, council said, the recommendation would be put to referendum in a special election within six months.

The Jaycees contend, however, that previous charter studies are sufficient, that many recommendations made in past charter studies have been put into effect and that the council-manager amendments they are sponsoring meet all the requirements.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech said if council thought the council-manager proposal was ready for the ballot "then we should have put it on the ballot." He added if citizens have quesions, they should go to the Jaycees for answers.

Mrs. Roeder, a supporter of council-manager but who agreed with council's action last week, said she recognized the fact the move was initiated by the Jaycees but that if council feels certain "boundaries" exist in the plan as presented, then they should be explained. Otherwise, he continued, a good movement might be damaged.

Asked by Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming if the Jaycees had requested such a meeting, Mrs. Roeder said they had not.

Street Commissioner John J. Long said if the Jaycees require any information on operation or costs of the street or sewer departments he would be glad to furnish them. He said he was still trying to be democratic about the subject and would be glad to meet with the Jaycees if they so desired.

Mrs. Roeder said she also felt it democratic in trying to get answers to questions which citizens have.

City Receives Bids On Several Items

The Mayor and Council acted on a number of routine matters yesterday.

Council will advertise for the fencing of the Little League ballfield in the McNamee's Hill recreation area.

Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming was authorized to advertise for bids for a cruiser car; and Street Commissioner John J. Long for renovating a room adjacent to the city clerk's office in the basement of City Hall.

Two applications for parking lots were approved. One for 50 cars, the Fort Cumberland parking lot, is located at 129 Frederick Street and the applicant is Cumberland Outdoor Club, Inc.

Three bids were received for roofing and spouting a building near the filtration plant at Lake Gordon. Bidding are Courtney Roofing Company, city, $1,090; Charles Atkinson, city, $886; and Air Flow Roofing and Siding Products Company, city, $890. Bids were referred to Water Commissioner G. Ray Light.

Council approved appointment of Edward W. Taylor as probationary caretaker in the Water Department effective April 9.

Council was invited to attend the annual installation of officers of Henry Hart Post 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars Saturday night and approved a proclamation naming the week of May 6-13 as "Music Week."

Payment of $4,248.84 to Koontz Equipment Company for installation of the Henderson-Mechanic streets intersection traffic signal system was approved.

PROMOTED — Norman J. Gellner, above, of 1212 LaVale Avenue, LaVale, has been named assistant manager of Becaon Life Insurance Company of Baltimore for the Cumberland area, according to John P. Moffatt Jr., local district manager. Gellner is a past vice president of Cumberland Life Underwriters Association and a veteran of World War 2 when he served with the Navy in the South Pacific. He is married to the former Catherine L. Goldsworthy and they have five children.

City Urban Unit Formed

The Mayor and Council established the Cumberland Urban Renewal Agency yesterday.

The ordinance creating the group was approved after a resolution urging its establishment was submitted by the Cumberland Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission.

Under the ordinance, the agency will consist of six members with the Mayor included as an ex-officio member. The other five members will represent manufacturing, professional, general business, labor and real estate fields.

Terms of office for members will be five years, except those appointed the first time will serve for one, two, three, four and five years with council to designate the number of years the first appointees shall serve.

The agency would assume responsibility of preparing a workable program of community improvement and administer subsequent urban renewal activities. This is allowed under legislation empowering Maryland cities to engage in such work.

Preparation of the improvement plan is included in the current 23-month study being conducted by Blair and Stein Associates, planners for the city.

Lake Over Crest

Lake Gordon is three inches above the crest of the spillway and Lake Koon two inches above, a report by Ray Nixon, water plant foreman, to the Mayor and Council showed yesterday. Consumption for the week ending Sunday was 79,360,000 gallons compared to 96,510,000 the same period a year ago.

Red Square in Moscow did not get its name from any emblem of a political party. Since the Middle Ages, the square has been known by this name, which is a form of a Russian word which means both "red" and "beautiful."

Postal Clerks To Attend Meet

Three delegates will represent Local 513 of the Maryland Federation of Post Office Clerks at a legislative conference May 8-9 in Washington.

Edward Haines is chairman of the delegation that includes William Golladay and Fred Carson. The group will confer with members of Congress, Post Office Department and State Federation officials.

Theodore Clark and William Seiler of the local postal staff, will represent the State Federation at the Washington conclave.

Local 513 is completing plans to host the state convention of Postal Clerks in June at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Parking Receipts Up

For the second time in three weeks, parking meter receipts topped the $1,000 mark.

Inspector Harry Whisner reported to the Mayor and Council that receipts the week of April 15 were $1,014.10 as compared to $870.95 the week of April 8, an increase of $143.15.

Frostburg Centennial Parade Planned

Council To Finance Queen's Float

FROSTBURG — At least one person will be assured of a ride in the gala parade to be staged by the Frostburg Sesquicentennial on June 30 according to William Preston who is heading the parade committee.

Preston, who also serves as city street commissioner, secured the cooperation of the City Council to sponsor the float upon which the Centennial Queen will ride upon in the parade. The cost of the float will be around $500, and funds will be used from the movie tax fund.

Preston said that dozens of invitations have been mailed to all types of organizations within 100 miles of Frostburg and that according to early returns the parade will be the largest ever to be held in the community.

Hundreds of dollars are being offered as prizes for the various types of units appearing.

R. Bowen Hardesty, president of Frostburg State Teachers College, has volunteered the use of the college athletic field for the area in which to form the parade. The final route has not yet been decided upon, Preston said, but everyone should mark the date on their calendar so as not to miss the "Big Parade".

Mineral County Spelling Bee Winners

These are the winners in the Mineral County Spelling Bee held in Keyser, W. Va., at the elementary school building there. Shepherd College Alumni Sponsoring Keyser Rally

KEYSER—The ninetieth anniversary rally for Shepherd College will be held here Monday night, April 30, at the Mineral Street Methodist Church.

Charles Unseld, president of Shepherd College Alumni, announced the meeting and said plans are being developed by a local committee and tickets are on sale at each school in Mineral County.

Alumni, former students, and friends of the college are invited to the dinner meeting, where a team from the college will present a program. Dr. James Moler, coordinator of education services at the college, will head the team and he said today the program would be to acquaint friends of Shepherd with the growth, development, change in program and needs of Shepherd.

At the same time, Dr. Moler said members of the college faculty want to pay tribute to the students from Mineral County. Almost half the teachers in eastern West Virginia have been students at Shepherd.

The Shepherd College service area is eastern West Virginia. A similar rally is being held in each county. President Ikenberry said, "We want our people to know about our long-range plans. These Ninetieth Anniversary rallies will serve to focus attention to our centennial goals."

All persons who are interested in Shepherd College are invited to attend. The local committee members arranging the dinner are Charles N. Wimer, S. T. McGee, Charles Waggley, William Marker, Mildred Burgess, Frances Hartman and Lester McDowell.

W. Va. AFL-CIO Endorses 92 Candidates

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Ninety-two candidates for nomination to the Legislature in the May 8 primary have been endorsed by the West Virginia Labor Federation, AFL-CIO.

The endorsements from the federation's Committee on Political Education (COPE) also reiterated support of West Virginia's five incumbent Democratic members of the House of Representatives.

COPE, in the West Virginia AFL-CIO News and Views, selected 11 Democrats and four Republicans in the State Senate races and 61 Democrats and 16 Republicans in the House.

In choosing the candidates for primary support, the committee said it considered voting records on key labor legislation, answers to questionnaires, personal interviews and other political factors.

Frostburg Centennial Parade Planned

Council To Finance Queen's Float

FROSTBURG — At least one person will be assured of a ride in the gala parade to be staged by the Frostburg Sesquicentennial on June 30 according to William Preston who is heading the parade committee.

Preston, who also serves as city street commissioner, secured the cooperation of the City Council to sponsor the float upon which the Centennial Queen will ride upon in the parade. The cost of the float will be around $500, and funds will be used from the movie tax fund.

Preston said that dozens of invitations have been mailed to all types of organizations within 100 miles of Frostburg and that according to early returns the parade will be the largest ever to be held in the community.

Hundreds of dollars are being offered as prizes for the various types of units appearing.

R. Bowen Hardesty, president of Frostburg State Teachers College, has volunteered the use of the college athletic field for the area in which to form the parade. The final route has not yet been decided upon, Preston said, but everyone should mark the date on their calendar so as not to miss the "Big Parade".

Shepherd College Alumni Sponsoring Keyser Rally

KEYSER—The ninetieth anniversary rally for Shepherd College will be held here Monday night, April 30, at the Mineral Street Methodist Church.

Charles Unseld, president of Shepherd College Alumni, announced the meeting and said plans are being developed by a local committee and tickets are on sale at each school in Mineral County.

Alumni, former students, and friends of the college are invited to the dinner meeting, where a team from the college will present a program. Dr. James Moler, cooridnator of education services at the college, will head the team and he said today the program would be to acquaint friends of Shepherd with the growth, development, change in program and needs of Shepherd.

At the same time, Dr. Moler said members of the college faculty want to pay tribute to the students from Mineral County. Almost half the teachers in eastern West Virginia have been students at Shepherd.

The Shepherd College service area is eastern West Virginia. A similar rally is being held in each county. President Ikenberry said, "We want our people to know about our long-range plans. These Ninetieth Anniversary rallies will serve to focus attention to our centennial goals."

All persons who are interested in Shepherd College are invited to attend. The local committee members arranging the dinner are Charles N. Wimer, S. T. McGee, Charles Waggley, William Marker, Mildred Burgess, Frances Hartman and Lester McDowell.

W. Va. AFL-CIO Endorses 92 Candidates

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Ninety-two candidates for nomination to the Legislature in the May 8 primary have been endorsed by the West Virginia Labor Federation, AFL-CIO.

The endorsements from the federation's Committee on Political Education (COPE) also reiterated support of West Virginia's five incumbent Democratic members of the House of Representatives.

COPE, in the West Virginia AFL-CIO News and Views, selected 11 Democrats and four Republicans in the State Senate races and 61 Democrats and 16 Republicans in the House.

In choosing the candidates for primary support, the committee said it considered voting records on key labor legislation, answers to questionnaires, personal interviews and other political factors.

Frostburg Sets Record In Heart Drive

FROSTBURG — Contributions to the 1962 Heart Fund in the Frostburg area hit a record total this year, according to officials of the Allegany-Garrett County Heart Association who released complete figures today.

Donations totaled $1,210.20, an increase of more than $200 over the 1961 campaign total, and a hike of more than $500 over the 1960 figure of $691.63.

Robert Kerr served as general chairman for the Frostburg area for this year's fund campaign. Mrs. Harry Eisel was Heart Sunday chairman, and Leslie W. Fair was business chairman. The Heart association was assisted by Frostburg's Junior Association of Commerce, which aided with special events and conducted a street block balloon sale which realized $123.85.

The biggest part of the 1962 total came through Heart Sunday door-to-door solicitations. This canvass brought in $856.86.

Other contributions were $46.60, Heart Sunday mail-ins; $51.89, plastic heart containers; $25, clubs and organizations; $91, business; $15, physicians, and $123.85, special events.

Organizations contributing were Chapter 221, Women of Moose, Welsh Memorial Baptist Church, Lodge 470, BPO Elks, and Farady Unit 24, American Legion Auxiliary.

Mrs. Eisel was assisted by door-to-door solicitations by Mrs. Marie Lewis, Mrs. William Vogtman and Mrs. George McGregor, area chairman for Frostburg; Mrs. Harold Drew, Carlos; Mrs. Russell Carter, Shaft; Mrs. Robert Shoemake, Zihlman; Mrs. Alex Lindsay, Wright's Crossing; Mrs. Charles Ware, Midlothian, and Mrs. Enordo Arnone, Grahamtown.

A New Threat To The FRB

A decade ago the shotgun marriage between the U. S. Treasury and the Federal Reserve Board which had been arranged to finance World War II at low interest rates was annulled. Now the FRB's independence is again threatened by a proposal President Kennedy has sent to Congress.

The Reserve Board chairman is appointed for four years from the time his predecessor's term ends. Under Mr. Kennedy's plan each new President would be given the opportunity, 11 days after entering the White House, of selecting his own chairman.

The concept behind the proposal is to make the President the "organizational focus" of all government policies directed toward fulfilling the Employment Act of 1946. This act is a commitment by the government to take any and all measures for a healthy economy. Although concentration of power over the Reserve Board might make for quick decisions, it also involves dangers.

Granted the power to create credit, which the Federal Reserve now has exclusively, an administration would have a natural inclination toward cheap money in meeting its borrowing problems. This is exactly what happened in the war years when the Federal Reserve surrendered its power to the Treasury. Inflationary pegging of government bond prices was the result.

As an independent agency, the Federal Reserve is able to take necessary, but often disagreeable, restrictive credit action. It would be a mistake to shift this power to the head of a national political party who might not want to accept the responsibility of making unpopular decisions.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Amateur Critic

"I have often wondered how a music critic can possibly enjoy his job. Night after night, he goes to concerts and to the opera and he must say much the same thing because after all Beethoven's Fifth is still Beethoven's Fifth no matter who stands on the podium and wields a stick. And the same is true about the opera. So little appears that is strictly new that the critic does not often have a Schoenberg or a Scriabin to slaughter.

So he might devote himself to poisoning the tea of a conductor. It might be lots of fun, saying that Stokowski is a poseur or that Bernstein dances better than he conducts. I once heard a critic hiss Munch and there might have been a good fight until it was discovered that he was a musicologist and then all was forgiven, for after all it is quite possible for musicologists to hate music, just as distillers do not drink whiskey and a salami manufacturer prefers cheese.

The subject of Bernstein intrigues me. I saw him conduct when he was figuratively in his kneepants, learning how to wield a stick from Koussevitzky and living much in the shadow of Aaron Copland. I have watched him grow in stature and in personality over the years. Up in Tanglewood, I often missed the music altogether while I watched his antics as a conductor.

In recent years, I have watched Leonard Bernstein on television more than in the concert hall and I have reached the conclusion that as a musical propagandist, as one who can bring out in others a love for music, he is unequalled. He is a master teacher. He will one day, I hope, lead an orchestra of brilliant children as an offer of hope to those who seek an opportunity to perform.

The other night, I witnessed a musical spectacle that made me want to be another Otto Kahn, which means that I would then be able to pick up the bill for something truly great. Bernstein each year gives three very young men a chance to be his assistants, as a Supreme Court Justice appoints clerks who afterwards become distinguished lawyers.

Bernstein's three assistants were permitted to conduct and the soloists, piano, bass-fiddle, flute, clarinet, xylophone and glockenspiel were young people from age 13 upwards and truly remarkable, they all were. Gary Karr played the double-bass as though that monstrosity were intended to sing. What an opportunity for young people! What a chance to prove themselves and they did prove themselves worthy of Bernstein's understanding that genius has nothing to do with age, or race.

Perhaps the music critics will find a flaw in all this. They will say that the Philharmonic could be used for more useful purposes. What could they be? What can a leader do that is more purposeful than to bring new life into his particular field of endeavor? Leonard Bernstein announced that one of his young people, John Canarina, will conduct the Jacksonville Orchestra next year. It was like Koussevitzky looking down on a third generation of his handiwork.

I walked into the home of friends, unostentatious people who live quietly, without fuss. Against a wall stood four paintings, of some quality. It was the mother of the household who had found an artistic expression just as her son plays the piano. Their life is full because time is not being wasted in futilities. Another friend says that he can laugh at the world because he has found himself in gardening, in beautifying the environs of his home.

Such people are not driven by the futility of their own existence. "You do not know what life is," says the young woman who suddenly discovered that she can attract to herself strange men with strange habits. "Live!", she almost shrieks and it sounds so funny, because there are so many ways to live. I was thinking of the twins who played in Bernstein's concert, beautiful Ruth and Naomi Segal. They will never have to rush from one madhouse to another seeking what some call life. Their days are full of beauty and they will ever be grateful to Bernstein and the Philharmonic for giving them a chance to prove that the labor that goes into the making of a concert pianist is compensating.

JFK's Statements On Steel Profits Misleading

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—Presentation of Presidential news conferences by television, with only one side being given to the same audience, can result in a misguided electorate.

President Kennedy, of course, is not the kind of man who would knowingly mislead the people. But he is inexperienced in business, and he depends on what some of his advisers—also unfamiliar with industrial operations — tell him about complicated economic questions. The result can be a misstatement of the facts of economic life.

For instance, many economists are stunned by Mr. Kennedy's erroneous statements at his press conference last Wednesday. He was asked by a reporter whether he felt that gains made through efficiency and lower costs achieved by modernized plant and equipment — frequently called "productivity" — should be shared by investors as well as labor. The President replied:

"The owners of steel stocks have shared very much in the last 10 years. I don't think there is any question. I think there has been a split of six times in the United States Steel stocks since '48-'49, and they have been paid a very good dividend, and they have very strong equity. And what is true of U. S. Steel is true, even in greater extent, in other steel companies, and, as I have said, in industry in general. So that I think the shareholders — and the shareholders will do very well."

Also, earlier in the same press conference, in his prepared statement, Mr. Kennedy said:

"I believe that the anticipated profits this year for industry in general, and steel in particular, indicate that these policies are meeting with some measure of success, and it is a fact that the last quarter of last year, and I think the first quarter of this year, will be the highest profits in the history of this country, and the highest number of people working, and the highest productivity."

Now what are the facts? In the first place, steel profits still were low in the last quarter of 1961, and will hardly approach previous records in the first quarter of 1962. But the average person will derive from the President's remarks the impression that steel profits have been rising steadily to the highest point in their history.

As for the "highest profits" in industry in general, Mr. Kennedy didn't tell the American people the whole story. Numerically, there are, for instance, more people employed today in the United States than ever before. How does that help, however, the more than 4,000,000 who are unemployed? Some businesses, to be sure, are prospering, but steel —the center of last week's controversy — isn't prospering.

But, even on corporate profits for all industries, the President gave a figure that will be disputed. Actually, as he says, corporate profits as a whole for the final quarter of 1961 were a record — at the rate of $52.4 billion before taxes, or about $1 billion higher than the previous record. But figured in relation to gross national product — as it properly should be to get a real comparison — the profits were only 9.7 per cent, as contrasted with 16.2 per cent ten years ago. This means they have declined by 40 per cent in the past decade.

The average of all profits for the nation last year was 8.8 per cent of gross national product, which was the lowest since World War II with the exception of the 8.4 per cent in the recession year of 1954. The 15-year average of 1946-1960 was 10.8 per cent, which is two full points, or approximately 23 per cent, above 1961.

But the same people who heard President Kennedy's glib presentation on television will not get these facts.

As to whether the investors have shared in the "productivity" formula, the President's comment is also misleading. The profits of the primary iron and steel industry — according to Security and Exchange Commission reports — were at 4.58 per cent of sales in 1961. But the 1947-1960 average was 6.14 per cent, or 34 per cent above 1961.

Now, as to the splitting of the stock of U.S. Steel, Mr. Kennedy neglected to point out that, if anyone bought one share of U. S. Steel stock in 1959 at the market price of $108, he now has a stock worth about $64 and has lost 40 per cent of his investment. He has gained nothing at all out of the "productivity" formula.

Perhaps the most confusing comment was the President's statement that "if you could get the capacity of steel up to 85 or 90 per cent, you would have a $500 million increase in their profits at present prices."

Mr. Kennedy got mixed up between production and capacity. The "capacity" of the steel mills is relatively unchanged, but the proportion of total capacity actually used by the industry isn't going to get up to 85 or 90 per cent at any time in the near future. Also, if prices are maintained at the current level for the total production being forecast for 1962, the steel companies will have a decrease in profits per ton in the remainder of the year due to the heavier expenses they now face.

So the truth is the steel stockholders in recent years have not shared in the productivity gains at all, while labor — which has had three wage increases in four years — has gotten virtually all of the productivity benefits. Yet this isn't what the President told the American people in his public statements to the press and over radio and television.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

POLITICAL VAUDEVILLE — The "Ev and Charlie" show has been making headlines for more than a year now as Republicans on Capitol Hill attempt to compete for national attention with the in-power Democrats.

"Ev" is Senate Republican Leader Everett Dirksen of Illinois. "Charlie" is Rep. Charles Halleck, of Indiana, House Republican leader. The show is a weekly video-taped press conference in which the two discuss matters of current public interest and purport to express the Republican Party view.

Needless to say, neither are experienced television actors and evidences of "ham" are sometimes extreme. More important, many of their Republican colleagues in Congress are resentful of the show because, they claim, it gives the public only one segment of Republican thought — usually the more extremely conservative view.

With all this running against it, the "Ev and Charlie show" has survived, and apparently will go on at least as long as the Republican Party is out of national power. But it takes its share of knocks.

Recently, for instance, a "friend" told Halleck: "You and Ev Dirksen have done a wonderful thing. You've demonstrated to a whole new generation what it was that killed vaudeville."

Extra Chromosomes Upset Body Development

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Many hereditary diseases are now blamed on a mismatching of the chromosomes. This includes various congenital anomalies, abnormal sex development, and mental deficiencies. Mongolism, for example, appears to be associated with an extra chromosome.

We obtain our original set of chromosomes from the union of the egg and sperm, each of which contributes 23. This is how the fertilized ovum gets 46 and explains how we inherit the body characteristics of our ancestors. Each chromosome contains the plans that govern the architecture of mind and body.

The fertilized ovum and its chromosomes divide into 2 cells, then into 4, 8, 16, etc., until there are millions. Every cell in the normal individual ends up with 46 chromosomes.

This can be demonstrated by removing cells from the inside of the mouth and preparing them properly for study under the microscope.

Women have two X chromosomes and men have an X and a Y. In this respect, the sex of the individual is determined the moment fertilization takes place. It is a boy when the resulting mixture contains Y.

Mismatching or disjunction of pairs of chromosomes leads to more or fewer than the normal number or to sets of three instead of pairs.

This altered genetic balance interferes with development in a variety of ways. It might lead to the death of the fetus or to a congenital anomaly. None of these is the fault of the parents and they never should blame themselves when something happens to the baby because of scrambled chromosomes.

In many instances, the extra is an X chromosome. Many studies have been made on mentally deficient persons and it is surprising how often mixed matchings have occurred. Females may have XXX instead of XX, and males may have XXY instead of XY.

Some day, perhaps, we will have a way of correcting these mismatchings so that congenital lesions can be prevented.

DEFICIENT THYROID SECRETION

R. F. writes: What do thyroid pills do for a person who has a minus 20 on the breathing test?

REPLY

They replace the hormone deficiency in those with hypothyroidism and help them to feel warmer and less sleepy. They may raise the pulse and body temperature to normal and decrease a high blood choiesterol level. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on hypothyroidism.

EARACHE

J. B. writes: If a child has earache, is a heating pad over the ear good treatment?

REPLY

Heat eases distress but the cause of the earache is a more important consideration. Infection of the inner ear, with pressure on the drum from accumulation of pus, requires drainage and the use of antibiotics.

ARM OR HIP SHOTS

J. S. writes: Are weaker shots of penicillin given into an arm and stronger shots into a hip?

REPLY

No. The hip is preferred because it is larger, softer, has fewer blood vessels and nerves to strike, and is less sensitive to the stretching effects of a small amount of fluid.

WILL POWER LACKING

D. B. writes: I'm on a reducing diet and take pills. When the prescription runs out I start eating again before I have it refilled. Have you any helpful hints on controlling this problem?

REPLY

Yes — first learn to control yourself.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Groundkeeper Harry Earnshaw, of the Halifax Cricket Club, England, had a harrowing experience one rare day last June. He finished mowing the cricket pitch and climbed over the fence in the greyhound track, confident that racing had finished for the day. It hadn't.

The electric rabbit knocked Mr. Earnshaw over and six greyhounds ran over him. The race was declared void, and Mr. Earnshaw, when he regained consciousness, was fined two pounds for illegal entry to the track.

A number of 5-year-old Timothy's playmates gathered beneath his window and shrilly importuned him to come out and play. Timothy finally appeared at the window and replied, "Can't you see I can't come down now? I'm taking my nap."

A rueful observation by an old Japanese philosopher: "Parting begins with the first meeting."

The town's most notorious deadbeat boasted at the weekly poker game, "I give the little woman a check regularly every Saturday night so she can put it aside for a rainy day." "That's nice," commented one of his many creditors sardonically. "She can sew them all together and make a rubber raincoat."

Secret Pressures On Congressmen Swing Votes Against Farm Bill

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—The public generally has the idea that Congress votes a law after long and careful consideration, during which the good of the nation is weighed and debated.

Unfortunately it doesn't always work that way. Take, for instance, one of the most important bills now before Congress — the farm bill, which will affect every farmer in the nation plus most of the housewives, millers, processors, grain elevator owners, and grocers.

The farm bill is being debated in secret committee meetings not according to what's good for the nation but according to the local, business, and lobbying pressures brought upon individual Congressmen.

Here are the secret moves which the public doesn't know about:

Secret Move No. 1—Sen. Bill Proxmire of Wisconsin left the Senate Agriculture Committee the other day to make a TV recording. When he left he handed his proxy to Sen. Jim Eastland, cigar-chomping solon from Mississippi, who is against Kennedy's farm bill. Significantly, Proxmire did not hand it to Chairman Allen Ellender of Louisiana, who is for the bill.

The minute Eastland had Proxmire's proxy in his pocket, he began rooting to vote on the bill. Prior to this Big Jim had been lackadaisical. Now he pushed for a vote.

Hastily, White House and Agriculture Department aides tried to locate Proxmire, get him back in committee. They failed. Proxmire had been crititcal of Kennedy lately on the appointment of pro-industry men to the Federal Power Commission; also on Kennedy's failure to push aid to education. He never did return to vote.

His proxy in Eastland's hand gave opponents of the farm bill a 9-to-8 victory.

Secret Move No. 2—In the farm bill is provision for helping farmers dig swimming and fishing ponds for city recreation purposes. This has given Senator Eastland and Rep. Abernathy, both of Mississippi, ammunition to whisper to Southern colleagues: "Are you going to vote for swimming pools where your children will have to swim with Nigras?"

Eastland and Abernathy are subjected to pressure against the farm bill from the big cotton interests. But the fishing-pond provisions in the farm bill have given them extra ammunition.

Secret Move No. 3—One Republican, Milt Young of North Dakota, had promised to support the farm bill. He had given this promise to the Farmers Union which is strong in North Dakota. In the early voting he carried out his pledge. After an amendment to the freed grain provisions, however, he switched and voted no. In this way he straddled—voting first with the Farmers Union, which is for, later with the American Farm union, which is opposed.

Secret Move No. 4—Sen. Olin Johnston of South Carolina, a conscientious, hard-working Senator, had favored the farm bill. Then Gov. Ernest Hollings announced that he would run against him. Since then Olin has been nervous. And he was too nervous to carry out his promise to vote with Kennedy.

Secret Move No. 5—The House Agriculture Committee is headed by Harold Cooley, North Carolina Democrat, who knows farm problems and is backing Kennedy. However, Cooley is acting as lawyer in a case in Rocky Mount, N. C., in which the widow and son of millionaire A. J. Mims have been contesting a will in favor of a local painter and alderman, Robert Moore.

It was expected that Congressman Cooley would get a fee of around $200,000 out of this case —if he won—and he was spending so much time in court rather than piloting the Kennedy farm bill through his committee that President Kennedy finally phoned him asking him to get back to Washington.

Kennedy didn't say so, but a Congressman is paid by all the taxpayers to tend to his duties in Washington, not try law cases in local courts. Cooley, of course, didn't tell Kennedy that he was slightly miffed at not having been made Secretary of Agriculture.

At any rate, Cooley finally lost his lawsuit. The jury awarded the millionaire's estate to the widow and her son.

After this it was expected that the Chairman of the House Agriculture Committee would stick to his farm bill knitting. Instead, he left for Rome, Italy, on April 19 to attend an Inter-Parliamentary Union Meeting, April 23-29 —at the taxpayers' expense.

Congress, of course, is now in Easter recess. But North Carolina tobacco growers had hoped to have a meeting of North Carolina Congressmen this week to consider legislative requirements for selling loose-leaf tobacco.

With Cooley in Italy, the meeting had to be postponed.

This is how some Congressmen operate and how local influences and lobbying can change the course of legislation affecting millions of people.

Real Gone Titles

By John Crosby

I don't know whether the rest of you have noticed, but the titles of plays, books, and even television dramas are getting wild, wild, wild, I say. Time was when a good workable title of a play was, well, "Macbeth" did all right. So did "Hamlet." Not any more. Now, titles are beginning to resemble abstract paintings. You take a lot of words and drip them on a marquee and pretty soon you have something like: "Oh, Dad, Poor Dad, Mama's Hung You in the Closet and I'm Feelin' So Bad," which happens to be the moniker of an Off-Broadway play.

One thing about a title like that: it's expressive not so much of what the play's about as what it's not about. You see a title like that on a marquee — and if they get any longer, there won't be any marquees big enough — and you know full well you're not about to see "Ben Hur." A title like "Oh, Dad, etc." contains within it some of the seeds of the author's own personality, his beliefs, his special feelings about life, literature, and the pursuit of happiness.

I don't know who started these outbursts of whimsy but I rather suspect it was that persistent elf, William Saroyan, who 'way back in the '30s, produced a book of short stories called "The Daring Young Man on the Flying Trapeze." That title told a lot about Saroyan and his writing. At the time it was unique. Now the world seems to be full of Saroyans or imitation Saroyans and the titles on Broadway and in the book stalls get longer and longer and more and more implausible.

For instance, "How to Succeed in Business without Really Trying" is certainly a mouthful. But it's also a very explicit mouthful. Having said it, the author Shepherd Mead, who originally put all this into a book, went on to prove his thesis word for word. (Of course, to say Bobby Morse is Not Really Trying is stretching things.) Then there's "A Funny Thing Happened to Me on the Way to the Forum." The "Funny Thing" bit has been worked to the point where it's really not very funny and the last word has probably been said by Jack Douglas in his book, "A Funny Thing Happened to Me on the Way to the Grave."

Many years ago, George Kaufman warned about wisecracking titles, pointing out that by the second night they weren't funny and by the end of the week they got awfully stale. (Some of his own titles, "The Man Who Came to Dinner" and "You Can't Take It With You" were fairly whimsical, though.)

Tennessee Williams titles are real gone, too — "Streetcar Named Desire," "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," and "The Night of the Iguana" — but you must admit they capture the essence and the mood of each of those plays.

Movie titles are getting way out, too, though not so far out as Off-Broadway. "Hiroshima, Mon Amour" belongs in the new wave of movie titles, a bittersweet juxtaposition of love and death which curiously tells quite a lot of the story in it.

The wildest titles of all are showing up in television. A few years ago a writer named S. Lee Pogostin wrote a television play called "People Kill People Sometimes" and followed that up with "A Song with Orange in It." These were considered fairly far out at the time. But now even the bread and butter series came up with kookier titles than that.

"Ben Casey," about a hard-mouthed unsmiling taciturn neurosurgeon, who has replaced the hard-mouthed unsmiling cops as hero material, has a lot of wacky titles for each episode: "For the Ladybug, One Dozen Races," "Odyssey of a Proud Suitcase," "A Memory of Candy Stripes," "A Certain Time, a Certain Darkness." "Naked City" boasts such conversation stoppers as "Lament for a Dead Indian," "The Man Who Kills Ants Is Coming," "Take Off Your Hats When the Funeral Passes." "Route 66" has some lulus like "Birdcage on My Feet," "To Walk with a Serpent," and "How Much a Pound Is Albatross."

H. Allen Smith pioneered the dizzy titles in the world of books with "Low Man on a Totem Pole" and "Life in a Putty Knife Factory," both of which did all right. In retrospect they seem rather mild, proper titles for Louisa May Alcott's novels almost. But they led the way to such contemporary titles as Jean Kerr's "The Snake Has All the Lines" or Alexander King's "May This House Be Safe from Tigers." And coming soon Henny and Jim Backus's "What Are You Doing After the Orgy?"

A New Threat To The FRB

A decade ago the shotgun marriage between the U. S. Treasury and the Federal Reserve Board which had been arranged to finance World War II at low interest rates was annulled. Now the FRB's independence is again threatened by a proposal President Kennedy has sent to Congress.

The Reserve Board chairman is appointed for four years from the time his predecessor's term ends. Under Mr. Kennedy's plan each new President would be given the opportunity, 11 days after entering the White House, of selecting his own chairman.

The concept behind the proposal is to make the President the "organizational focus" of all government policies directed toward fulfilling the Employment Act of 1946. This act is a commitment by the government to take any and all measures for a healthy economy. Although concentration of power over the Reserve Board might make for quick decisions, it also involves dangers.

Granted the power to create credit, which the Federal Reserve now has exclusively, an administration would have a natural inclination toward cheap money in meeting its borrowing problems. This is exactly what happened in the war years when the Federal Reserve surrendered its power to the Treasury. Inflationary pegging of government bond prices was the result.

As an independent agency, the Federal Reserve is able to take necessary, but often disagreeable, restrictive credit action. It would be a mistake to shift this power to the head of a national political party who might not want to accept the responsibility of making unpopular decisions.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Amateur Critic

"I have often wondered how a music critic can possibly enjoy his job. Night after night, he goes to concerts and to the opera and he must say much the same thing because after all Beethoven's Fifth is still Beethoven's Fifth no matter who stands on the podium and wields a stick. And the same is true about the opera. So little appears that is strictly new that the critic does not often have a Schoenberg or a Scriabin to slaughter.

So he might devote himself to poisoning the tea of a conductor. It might be lots of fun, saying that Stokowski is a poseur or that Bernstein dances better than he conducts. I once heard a critic hiss Munch and there might have been a good fight until it was discovered that he was a musicologist and then all was forgiven, for after all it is quite possible for musicologists to hate music, just as distillers do not drink whiskey and a salami manufacturer prefers cheese.

The subject of Bernstein intrigues me. I saw him conduct when he was figuratively in his kneepants, learning how to wield a stick from Koussevitzky and living much in the shadow of Aaron Copland. I have watched him grow in stature and in personality over the years. Up in Tanglewood, I often missed the music altogether while I watched his antics as a conductor.

In recent years, I have watched Leonard Bernstein on television more than in the concert hall and I have reached the conclusion that as a musical propagandist, as one who can bring out in others a love for music, he is unequalled. He is a master teacher. He will one day, I hope, lead an orchestra of brilliant children as an offer of hope to those who seek an opportunity to perform.

The other night, I witnessed a musical spectacle that made me want to be another Otto Kahn, which means that I would then be able to pick up the bill for something truly great. Bernstein each year gives three very young men a chance to be his assistants, as a Supreme Court Justice appoints clerks who afterwards become distinguished lawyers.

Bernstein's three assistants were permitted to conduct and the soloists, piano, bass-fiddle, flute, clarinet, xylophone and glockenspiel were young people from age 13 upwards and truly remarkable, they all were. Gary Karr played the double-bass as though that monstrosity were intended to sing. What an opportunity for young people! What a chance to prove themselves and they did prove themselves worthy of Bernstein's understanding that genius has nothing to do with age, or race.

Perhaps the music critics will find a flaw in all this. They will say that the Philharmonic could be used for more useful purposes. What could they be? What can a leader do that is more purposeful than to bring new life into his particular field of endeavor? Leonard Bernstein announced that one of his young people, John Canarina, will conduct the Jacksonville Orchestra next year. It was like Koussevitzky looking down on a third generation of his handiwork.

I walked into the home of friends, unostentatious people who live quietly, without fuss. Against a wall stood four paintings, of some quality. It was the mother of the household who had found an artistic expression just as her son plays the piano. Their life is full because time is not being wasted in futilities. Another friend says that he can laugh at the world because he has found himself in gardening, in beautifying the environs of his home.

Such people are not driven by the futility of their own existence. "You do not know what life is," says the young woman who suddenly discovered that she can attract to herself strange men with strange habits. "Live!", she almost shrieks and it sounds so funny, because there are so many ways to live. I was thinking of the twins who played in Bernstein's concert, beautiful Ruth and Naomi Segal. They will never have to rush from one madhouse to another seeking what some call life. Their days are full of beauty and they will ever be grateful to Bernstein and the Philharmonic for giving them a chance to prove that the labor that goes into the making of a concert pianist is compensating.

JFK's Statements On Steel Profits Misleading

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—Presentation of Presidential news conferences by television, with only one side being given to the same audience, can result in a misguided electorate.

President Kennedy, of course, is not the kind of man who would knowingly mislead the people. But he is inexperienced in business, and he depends on what some of his advisers—also unfamiliar with industrial operations — tell him about complicated economic questions. The result can be a misstatement of the facts of economic life.

For instance, many economists are stunned by Mr. Kennedy's erroneous statements at his press conference last Wednesday. He was asked by a reporter whether he felt that gains made through efficiency and lower costs achieved by modernized plant and equipment — frequently called "productivity" — should be shared by investors as well as labor. The President replied:

"The owners of steel stocks have shared very much in the last 10 years. I don't think there is any question. I think there has been a split of six times in the United States Steel stocks since '48-'49, and they have been paid a very good dividend, and they have very strong equity. And what is true of U. S. Steel is true, even in greater extent, in other steel companies, and, as I have said, in industry in general. So that I think the shareholders — and the shareholders will do very well."

Also, earlier in the same press conference, in his prepared statement, Mr. Kennedy said:

"I believe that the anticipated profits this year for industry in general, and steel in particular, indicate that these policies are meeting with some measure of success, and it is a fact that the last quarter of last year, and I think the first quarter of this year, will be the highest profits in the history of this country, and the highest number of people working, and the highest productivity."

Now what are the facts? In the first place, steel profits still were low in the last quarter of 1961, and will hardly approach previous records in the first quarter of 1962. But the average person will derive from the President's remarks the impression that steel profits have been rising steadily to the highest point in their history.

As for the "highest profits" in industry in general, Mr. Kennedy didn't tell the American people the whole story. Numerically, there are, for instance, more people employed today in the United States than ever before. How does that help, however, the more than 4,000,000 who are unemployed? Some businesses, to be sure, are prospering, but steel —the center of last week's controversy — isn't prospering.

But, even on corporate profits for all industries, the President gave a figure that will be disputed. Actually, as he says, corporate profits as a whole for the final quarter of 1961 were a record — at the rate of $52.4 billion before taxes, or about $1 billion higher than the previous record. But figured in relation to gross national product — as it properly should be to get a real comparison — the profits were only 9.7 per cent, as contrasted with 16.2 per cent ten years ago. This means they have declined by 40 per cent in the past decade.

The average of all profits for the nation last year was 8.8 per cent of gross national product, which was the lowest since World War II with the exception of the 8.4 per cent in the recession year of 1954. The 15-year average of 1946-1960 was 10.8 per cent, which is two full points, or approximately 23 per cent, above 1961.

But the same people who heard President Kennedy's glib presentation on television will not get these facts.

As to whether the investors have shared in the "productivity" formula, the President's comment is also misleading. The profits of the primary iron and steel industry — according to Security and Exchange Commission reports — were at 4.58 per cent of sales in 1961. But the 1947-1960 average was 6.14 per cent, or 34 per cent above 1961.

Now, as to the splitting of the stock of U.S. Steel, Mr. Kennedy neglected to point out that, if anyone bought one share of U. S. Steel stock in 1959 at the market price of $108, he now has a stock worth about $64 and has lost 40 per cent of his investment. He has gained nothing at all out of the "productivity" formula.

Perhaps the most confusing comment was the President's statement that "if you could get the capacity of steel up to 85 or 90 per cent, you would have a $500 million increase in their profits at present prices."

Mr. Kennedy got mixed up between production and capacity. The "capacity" of the steel mills is relatively unchanged, but the proportion of total capacity actually used by the industry isn't going to get up to 85 or 90 per cent at any time in the near future. Also, if prices are maintained at the current level for the total production being forecast for 1962, the steel companies will have a decrease in profits per ton in the remainder of the year due to the heavier expenses they now face.

So the truth is the steel stockholders in recent years have not shared in the productivity gains at all, while labor — which has had three wage increases in four years — has gotten virtually all of the productivity benefits. Yet this isn't what the President told the American people in his public statements to the press and over radio and television.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

POLITICAL VAUDEVILLE — The "Ev and Charlie" show has been making headlines for more than a year now as Republicans on Capitol Hill attempt to compete for national attention with the in-power Democrats.

"Ev" is Senate Republican Leader Everett Dirksen of Illinois. "Charlie" is Rep. Charles Halleck, of Indiana, House Republican leader. The show is a weekly video-taped press conference in which the two discuss matters of current public interest and purport to express the Republican Party view.

Needless to say, neither are experienced television actors and evidences of "ham" are sometimes extreme. More important, many of their Republican colleagues in Congress are resentful of the show because, they claim, it gives the public only one segment of Republican thought — usually the more extremely conservative view.

With all this running against it, the "Ev and Charlie show" has survived, and apparently will go on at least as long as the Republican Party is out of national power. But it takes its share of knocks.

Recently, for instance, a "friend" told Halleck: "You and Ev Dirksen have done a wonderful thing. You've demonstrated to a whole new generation what it was that killed vaudeville."

Secret Pressures On Congressmen Swing Votes Against Farm Bill

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—The public generally has the idea that Congress votes a law after long and careful consideration, during which the good of the nation is weighed and debated.

Unfortunately it doesn't always work that way. Take, for instance, one of the most important bills now before Congress — the farm bill, which will affect every farmer in the nation plus most of the housewives, millers, processors, grain elevator owners, and grocers.

The farm bill is being debated in secret committee meetings not according to what's good for the nation but according to the local, business, and lobbying pressures brought upon individual Congressmen.

Here are the secret moves which the public doesn't know about:

Secret Move No. 1—Sen. Bill Proxmire of Wisconsin left the Senate Agriculture Committee the other day to make a TV recording. When he left he handed his proxy to Sen. Jim Eastland, cigar-chomping solon from Mississippi, who is against Kennedy's farm bill. Significantly, Proxmire did not hand it to Chairman Allen Ellender of Louisiana, who is for the bill.

The minute Eastland had Proxmire's proxy in his pocket, he began rooting to vote on the bill. Prior to this Big Jim had been lackadaisical. Now he pushed for a vote.

Hastily, White House and Agriculture Department aides tried to locate Proxmire, get him back in committee. They failed. Proxmire had been crititcal of Kennedy lately on the appointment of pro-industry men to the Federal Power Commission; also on Kennedy's failure to push aid to education. He never did return to vote.

His proxy in Eastland's hand gave opponents of the farm bill a 9-to-8 victory.

Secret Move No. 2—In the farm bill is provision for helping farmers dig swimming and fishing ponds for city recreation purposes. This has given Senator Eastland and Rep. Abernathy, both of Mississippi, ammunition to whisper to Southern colleagues: "Are you going to vote for swimming pools where your children will have to swim with Nigras?"

Eastland and Abernathy are subjected to pressure against the farm bill from the big cotton interests. But the fishing-pond provisions in the farm bill have given them extra ammunition.

Secret Move No. 3—One Republican, Milt Young of North Dakota, had promised to support the farm bill. He had given this promise to the Farmers Union which is strong in North Dakota. In the early voting he carried out his pledge. After an amendment to the freed grain provisions, however, he switched and voted no. In this way he straddled—voting first with the Farmers Union, which is for, later with the American Farm union, which is opposed.

Secret Move No. 4—Sen. Olin Johnston of South Carolina, a conscientious, hard-working Senator, had favored the farm bill. Then Gov. Ernest Hollings announced that he would run against him. Since then Olin has been nervous. And he was too nervous to carry out his promise to vote with Kennedy.

Secret Move No. 5—The House Agriculture Committee is headed by Harold Cooley, North Carolina Democrat, who knows farm problems and is backing Kennedy. However, Cooley is acting as lawyer in a case in Rocky Mount, N. C., in which the widow and son of millionaire A. J. Extra Chromosomes Upset Body Development

Many hereditary diseases are now blamed on a mismatching of the chromosomes. This includes various congenital anomalies, abnormal sex development, and mental deficiencies. Mongolism, for example, appears to be associated with an extra chromosome.

We obtain our original set of chromosomes from the union of the egg and sperm, each of which contributes 23. This is how the fertilized ovum gets 46 and explains how we inherit the body characteristics of our ancestors. Each chromosome contains the plans that govern the architecture of mind and body.

The fertilized ovum and its chromosomes divide into 2 cells, then into 4, 8, 16, etc., until there are millions. Every cell in the normal individual ends up with 46 chromosomes.

This can be demonstrated by removing cells from the inside of the mouth and preparing them properly for study under the microscope.

Women have two X chromosomes and men have an X and a Y. In this respect, the sex of the individual is determined the moment fertilization takes place. It is a boy when the resulting mixture contains Y.

Mismatching or disjunction of pairs of chromosomes leads to more or fewer than the normal number or to sets of three instead of pairs.

This altered genetic balance interferes with development in a variety of ways. It might lead to the death of the fetus or to a congenital anomaly. None of these is the fault of the parents and they never should blame themselves when something happens to the baby because of scrambled chromosomes.

In many instances, the extra is an X chromosome. Many studies have been made on mentally deficient persons and it is surprising how often mixed matchings have occurred. Females may have XXX instead of XX, and males may have XXY instead of XY.

Some day, perhaps, we will have a way of correcting these mismatchings so that congenital lesions can be prevented.

DEFICIENT THYROID SECRETION

R. F. writes: What do thyroid pills do for a person who has a minus 20 on the breathing test?

REPLY

They replace the hormone deficiency in those with hypothyroidism and help them to feel warmer and less sleepy. They may raise the pulse and body temperature to normal and decrease a high blood cholesterol level. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on hypothyroidism.

EARACHE

J. B. writes: If a child has earache, is a heating pad over the ear good treatment?

REPLY

Heat eases distress but the cause of the earache is a more important consideration. Infection of the inner ear, with pressure on the drum from accumulation of pus, requires drainage and the use of antibiotics.

ARM OR HIP SHOTS

J. S. writes: Are weaker shots of penicillin given into an arm and stronger shots into a hip?

REPLY

No. The hip is preferred because it is larger, softer, has fewer blood vessels and nerves to strike, and is less sensitive to the stretching effects of a small amount of fluid.

WILL POWER LACKING

D. B. writes: I'm on a reducing diet and take pills. When the prescription runs out I start eating again before I have it refilled. Have you any helpful hints on controlling this problem?

REPLY

Yes — first learn to control yourself.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

Groundkeeper Harry Earnshaw, of the Halifax Cricket Club, England, had a harrowing experience one rare day last June. He finished mowing the cricket pitch and climbed over the fence in the greyhound track, confident that racing had finished for the day. It hadn't.

The electric rabbit knocked Mr. Earnshaw over and six greyhounds ran over him. The race was declared void, and Mr. Earnshaw, when he regained consciousness, was fined two pounds for illegal entry to the track.

A number of 5-year-old Timothy's playmates gathered beneath his window and shrilly importuned him to come out and play. Timothy finally appeared at the window and replied, "Can't you see I can't come down now?" I'm taking my nap."

A rueful observation by an old Japanese philosopher: "Parting begins with the first meeting."

The town's most notorious deadbeat boasted at the weekly poker game, "I give the little woman a check regularly every Saturday night so she can put it aside for a rainy day." "That's nice," commented one of his many creditors sardonically. "She can sew them all together and make a rubber raincoat."

New York Mets Snap Pittsburgh's 10-Game Win Streak, 9-1

Hook Tosses Five-Hitter At Pirates

Stengelmen Score First Win, Buccos Suffer First Loss

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The New York Mets, behind Jay Hook's five-hit pitching and their most powerful offensive display of the season, shook off the stigma of a record-tying losing streak Monday night with a 9-1 victory over the previously unbeaten Pittsburgh Pirates.

New York went into the game with the possibility of losing its 10th in a row and setting a National League standard for the most successive defeats at the outset of a season. The mark of nine is held jointly by the Mets and the 1918 Brooklyn Dodgers.

A Pittsburgh triumph would have set a modern major league record of 11 straight victories at the start of a season, surpassing by one a standard set by the Dodgers in 1955 and equalled Sunday by the Pirates.

Hook, a 25-year-old righthander, became the first Mets' pitcher to go the distance this season. He aided his own cause with a bases-loaded single in New York's four-run second inning by driving in two runs. He also scored twice.

The loser was Tom Sturdivant, now 1-1, while Hook is 1-0.

The Mets rapped Sturdivant for two runs in the first inning on two singles and two sacrifice flys. They chased the veteran knuckleballer in the second when they loaded the bases on Charley Neal's single and walks to Jim Hickman and Chris Cannizzarro.

Diomedes Olivo replaced Sturidvant and Hook greeted him with a base hit to right field. Felix Mantilla scored Cannizzaro with a sacrifice fly and Hook tallied on Elio Chacon's single.

New York added one run in the sixth and two in the eighth.

Pittsburgh scored in the sixth on two singles and Bob Skinner's infield out.

CHEATS DEATH IN CRACKUP—Stirling Moss, British amateur racer, cheated death yesterday when he careened off a track at Goodwood, England, at 90 miles per hour. Mechanics worked for half an hour to cut him free from the wreckage of his V-8 Lotus auto. He was hospitalized with head, back and leg injuries. Stirling Moss Injured As Car Spins Off Track

Bolt Cutters Used To Free Auto Racer

GOODWOOD, England (AP) — Stirling Moss, Britain's most daring auto racer, spun off a race-track at 90 miles an hour Monday and was taken to a hospital with bad head injuries.

A medical bulletin issued shortly before midnight described his injuries as "moderately severe." Doctors said Moss was seriously injured with head wounds, lacerations and suspected leg fractures.

Witnesses said Moss' Lotus car ran straight ahead at a right hand bend at the far side of the track from the pits, hurtled over the grass, swung sideways and hit the bank.

It took mechanics working with heavy bolt cutters 30 minutes to free Moss from the car. He remained conscious during rescue operations.

Moss was several laps behind the leaders in an international 100-mile race for grand prix cars when the accident occurred. But seconds before he had broken the official track record with a lap of 105.37 m.p.h.

His car apparently developed throttle trouble.

"I think Stirling had throttle trouble, as I had earlier," said John Surtees, another driver in the race. "When he took his foot off the accelerator, for engine breaking, the engine just roared on at full power."

Moss had throttle difficulties with the car when he first raced it at Snetterton, England, nine days ago.

Graham Hill won the race in a V-8 BRM, completing the 100 miles with an average speed of 102.65 m.p.h.

It was Moss' fourth narrow escape from death in the last two years.

Paw Paw, Circleville Win, Three Tied For PVC Lead

Hamilton Shuts Out Mathias, 5-0; Warner Tames Jackets, 3-2

Paw Paw High School's Pirates defeated Mathias by the score of 5-0 yesterday at Mathias and Circleville High's Indians upset Moorefield High School at Circleville, 3-2, to throw the Potomac Valley Conference's baseball race into a three-way tie for first place.

The defeat knocked Mathias High's defending champions off the top rung while the victories scored by Paw Paw and Circleville tied them with Keyser for the leadership, each school having won three game and lost one. Mathias is now 4-2 and is followed by Romney with 3-2.

Hamilton Whiffs Ten

Roland Hamilton, the tri-state area's leading scorer during the past basketball season, tossed a three-hitter and fired the third strike past 10 batsmen in twirling Coach Lewis Close's Buccaneers to a shut out triumph over Mathias. Al Makowski was tagged with the loss his second against four victories. Hamilton owns a 2-0 record this season.

In addition to twirling gilt-edge ball, Hamilton had a perfect day at the plate with a pair of triples and a single, accounting for three of his team's five safeties.

The win gave Paw Paw an overall mark of 5-1, including two decisions over Hedgesville in non-conference games.

Ed Mongold collected two of the three hits yielded by Hamilton.

Warner Beats Jackets

Carroll Warner turned in a one-hit performance and made his season record 3-1 as he twirled Coach Guy Propst's Circleville Indians to victory over Moorefield.

Moorefield's lone hit was a single by Dave Vance in the third frame.

Warner struck out four, issued three passes and hit one batter.

Orville Harper blasted a homer to centerfield to tie the score at 2-2 in the fifth and in the last of the 7th Larry Hedrick singled and completed the circuit with the tie-breaking run when the Jackets' leftfielder let the ball get away from him.

Lefty John Mathias went the route for Moorefield, yielded five hits and fanned four. He is 1-1 for the season.

Three Games Today

In P.V.C. games on tap for today, Petersburg High's Vikings host Keyser, Franklin plays at Moorefield and Fort Ashby's Eagles tackle Beall High School at Frostburg.

Hunsaker May Leave Hospital

BLUEFIELD, W. Va. (AP) — Tunney Hunsaker, on his feet for the first time since he was knocked out in a fight April 6, may be released from a Bluefield hospital Wednesday, Dr. E. L. Gage reported.

Dr. Gage said Monday the heavyweight fighter is making normal progress but "he's still wobbly." Hunsaker, 32, was able to walk with support from someone on either side, the doctor added.

Hunsaker suffered a brain injury in a fight at Beckley, W. Va., with Joe Shelton of Cleveland. He was in critical condition for several days and twice underwent brain surgery.

Giants Beat Reds Behind Pierce, 4-1

Southpaw Defeats Cincy Second Time

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Ex-American Leaguer Billy Pierce scored his second straight National League victory Monday night when his six-hit pitching pitching enabled the San Francisco Giants to defeat the Cincinnati Reds, 4-1.

The victory was Pierce's second of the season, both over the Reds, against no defeats.

Two other former American League players also figured prominently in the outcome of the game. Harvey Kuenn, former Detroit Tiger star, singled in each of the first two innings to set up the first two Giant runs, both scoring on misplays by Hank Foiles, Red catcher recently purchased from the Baltimore Orioles

In the first inning, with two out and the bases loaded, Foiles permitted a pitch by Jim O'Toole to get away and Kuenn crossed the plate on the passed ball. And in the second inning, in an identical situation, Foiles threw past first base trying to pick off Willie Mays. Jim Davenport scored on that play.

Ed Bailey hit the third home run of the season for an insurance run in the sixth inning and Mays singled home Kuenn in the ninth after Harvey had singled for the third time and then taken second on Chuck Hiller's single.

French Veteran Cops Grand Prix

Mexico's Rodriguez Finishes 2nd At Pau

PAU, France (UPI) —Maurice Trintignant of France won the 22nd Grand Prix of Pau auto race Monday in record shattering time.

Trintignant, a 44-year-old racing veteran, drove his Lotus over the winding, 171-mile course in two hours, 39 minutes and 35.5 seconds for an average speed of 64.44 miles per hour. This broke the old mark of 64.34 m.p.h. set by France's Jean Behra in 1957.

Trintignant beat a field of 16 top category number one cars driven by some of the world's best drivers in what is the European season's opening race after most of his top competitors gave up with mechanical trouble. Those who abandoned included Jim Clark of Britain, driving a brand new eight cylinder Lotus, and Joachim Bonnier of Sweden, driving a four cylinder Porsche.

Second was 20year-old Mexican hope Ricardo Rodriguez at the wheel of a six-cylinder Ferrari with the engine inclined at 120 degrees and third was Jack Lewis of Britain, driving the brand new eight cylinder BRM car.

A crowd of some 25,000 watched the race in beautiful weather.

Moorefield's lone hit was a single by Dave Vance in the third frame.

Warner struck out four, issued three passes and hit one batter.

Orville Harper blasted a homer to centerfield to tie the score at 2-2 in the fifth and in the last of the 7th Larry Hedrick singled and completed the circuit with the tie-breaking run when the Jackets' leftfielder let the ball get away from him.

Lefty John Mathias went the route for Moorefield, yielded five hits and fanned four. He is 1-1 for the season.

Three Games Today

DiMaggio's Son In Marine Reserve

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Joseph P. DiMaggio, 20, son of baseball's famous Joe DiMaggio, will start active duty training at the Marine Corps' Recruit Depot Tuesday.

He enlisted in the reserves as a member of the 1st San Diego Tank Battalion April 11.

The active duty will be for six months. He has been studying at Yale University.

Hunsaker May Leave Hospital

BLUEFIELD, W. Va. (AP) — Tunney Hunsaker, on his feet for the first time since he was knocked out in a fight April 6, may be released from a Bluefield hospital Wednesday, Dr. E. L. Gage reported.

Dr. Gage said Monday the heavyweight fighter is making normal progress but "he's still wobbly." Hunsaker, 32, was able to walk with support from someone on either side, the doctor added.

Hunsaker suffered a brain injury in a fight at Beckley, W. Va., with Joe Shelton of Cleveland. He was in critical condition for several days and twice underwent brain surgery.

Giants Beat Reds Behind Pierce, 4-1

Southpaw Defeats Cincy Second Time

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Ex-American Leaguer Billy Pierce scored his second straight National League victory Monday night when his six-hit pitching pitching enabled the San Francisco Giants to defeat the Cincinnati Reds, 4-1.

The victory was Pierce's second of the season, both over the Reds, against no defeats.

Two other former American League players also figured prominently in the outcome of the game. Harvey Kuenn, former Detroit Tiger star, singled in each of the first two innings to set up the first two Giant runs, both scoring on misplays by Hank Foiles, Red catcher recently purchased from the Baltimore Orioles

In the first inning, with two out and the bases loaded, Foiles permitted a pitch by Jim O'Toole to get away and Kuenn crossed the plate on the passed ball. And in the second inning, in an identical situation, Foiles threw past first base trying to pick off Willie Mays. Jim Davenport scored on that play.

Ed Bailey hit the third home run of the season for an insurance run in the sixth inning and Mays singled home Kuenn in the ninth after Harvey had singled for the third time and then taken second on Chuck Hiller's single.

French Veteran Cops Grand Prix

Mexico's Rodriguez Finishes 2nd At Pau

PAU, France (UPI) —Maurice Trintignant of France won the 22nd Grand Prix of Pau auto race Monday in record shattering time.

Trintignant, a 44-year-old racing veteran, drove his Lotus over the winding, 171-mile course in two hours, 39 minutes and 35.5 seconds for an average speed of 64.44 miles per hour. This broke the old mark of 64.34 m.p.h. set by France's Jean Behra in 1957.

Trintignant beat a field of 16 top category number one cars driven by some of the world's best drivers in what is the European season's opening race after most of his top competitors gave up with mechanical trouble. Those who abandoned included Jim Clark of Britain, driving a brand new eight cylinder Lotus, and Joachim Bonnier of Sweden, driving a four cylinder Porsche.

Second was 20year-old Mexican hope Ricardo Rodriguez at the wheel of a six-cylinder Ferrari with the engine inclined at 120 degrees and third was Jack Lewis of Britain, driving the brand new eight cylinder BRM car.

A crowd of some 25,000 watched the race in beautiful weather.

Nichols Wins Playoff For Houston Classic Golf Title

Texan Edges Dan Sikes In Sudden Death

Sinks 8-Foot Putt For Eagle 3 On 19th To Cop $9,000 Prize

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP) — Bobby Nichols, after recovering beautifully from a bad tee shot, sank an eight-foot putt for an eagle three on the 19th hole of a scheduled 18-hole playoff Monday and won $9,000 in top money in the $50,000 Houston Golf Classic.

Nichols, 26, a Midland, Tex., pro and Dan Sikes of Jacksonville, Fla., had finished the regulation 18 holes of the three-way playoff with Jack Nicklaus in a deadlock with one-over-par 71s Sikes calmly sank a birdie putt after seeing Nichols sink his jackpot eagle.

Nicklaus, the 1961 National Amateur champion in his first year as a pro, was eliminated from the sudden-death playoff by posting a 76, six over par for the 7,100-yard par 70 Memorial Park course. Nicklaus had seven bogies for the day, missing six greens and three-putting another.

Sikes and Nicklaus received $3,800 each.

The threesome had forced the playoff Sunday by finishing 72 holes in a tie at 278.

It was the fourth straight playoff for the Classic and the second straight sudden death finish. Jay Hebert won $7,000 a year ago with a birdie putt on the 19th hole in his playoff with Ken Venturi.

IT SHOULD HAVE BEEN MINE—Dane Sikes, left, of Jacksonville, Fla., jokingly takes hold of the first place $9,000 check and tells Bobby Nichols, center, it shold have been his. At right is Nichols, of Midland, Texas, who sank an eagle putt on the first green of the overtime sudden death playoff with Sikes. Sikes collected $3,800 for his second place finish in the $50,000 Houston Golf Classic which ended yesterday. (AP Photofax)

Women's Shuffle League Playoffs To Open Tonight

Playoffs in the Allegany County Women's Shuffleboard League will get under way tonight between the Golden Nugget and the Corriganville Auxiliary at Corriganville at 8:30 o'clock.

Golden Nugget won the regular season race with a 62-22 record while Corriganville wound up in third place with 57 wins and 27 losses.

The semi-final series will be six games, (total points) three of which will be staged tonight.

Purple Heart Club, the runner-up, with a 59-25 record, opens its series with Ruth's Tavern, which finished fourth (52-32), Wednesday night at 8:30 at Ruth's Tavern.

Baltimore Writers Honor Hitchcock

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore chapter of the Baseball Writers Association of America set some new records Monday night.

The organization presented a plaque to rookie manager Billy Hitchcock of the Baltimore Orioles for his friendliness with the press, although the Orioles have played only 10 games so far in the young 1962 season.

The plaque was presented at a chapter dinner honoring the late Jim Ellis of West Virginia, a former baseball writer for the Baltimore Evening Sun.

The second record set by the chapter was a more informal one. Not only did the members pay for the plaque presented to Hitchcock, they also paid for their own meals and drinks as well as treating the Oriole manager.

Lonaconing Angler Catches Large Pike In Deep Creek Lake

What is believed to be one of the largest great northern pike ever caught in Deep Creek Lake was hooked on Sunday afternoon by Basil Morris, of 126 Jackson street, Lonaconing.

The fish was 33¾ inches long and weighed 7¾ pounds.

Morris was angling in the lake near McHenry when he hauled in his prize catch.

Nicholas Tops Men's Shuffle League Scorers

Cresaptown Fireman Posts Total Of 428

Francis Nicholas, of the Cresaptown Firemen, of the National Division, led all scorers in the Allegany County Men's Shuffleboard League for the 1961-62 season with a total of 428 points, according to statistics compiled by Paul A. Stitcher, secretary.

Joe Love, of the Cumberland Knights of Columbus, and Tommy O'Toole, of the Redmen Club, tied for the lead in the American Division with 374 points.

Bob Robinette holds the all-time high score for a 31-game sesaon with 531 points. Love holds the record for a 28-game season with 528 tallies.

The high single game score for the season was made by George "Pruny" Kraft, of the Cumberland Eagles, who shot a 43. C. Flinn, of the Cresaptown Firemen, had a high game of 48 points but this was disallowed because the team this was scored against was disqualified from league play.

Bill Laurent of the Purple Heart Club holds the all-time high of 58 for a single game.

Trophies and other prizes for the past season will be presented at a dance to be held Thursday, April 26 at the Cumberland Eagles Home. Happy Laughner and his band will play for the dancing from 9 p. m. to 1 a. m.

The following players scored 300 or more points during the season:

Manager Jim Dunn's Cumberland Old Germans of the Rec Softball League will hold a practice session today at 5:30 p.m., at Naval Reserve Field.

PREFERRED BASKETBALL

CINCINNATI (UPI)—Ed Jucker, University of Cincinnati basketball coach, once turned down a professional baseball offer to coach a high school basketball team.

Preakness Champion

BALTIMORE — Eddie Arcaro retired as champion jockey of the Preakness. His six winners were Bold Ruler, Nashua, Bold, Hill Prince, Citation and Whrilaway. Citation and Whirlaway are Triple Crown winners.

VETERAN

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Warren Spahn of the Milwaukee Braves will become a 20-year man in the major leagues on Sept. 3, 1962.

Jim Mutscheller, Baltimore Colts' Player, Retires

BALTIMORE (AP) — Jim Mutscheller, another mainstay of the heyday of the Baltimore Colts, joined the retired ranks Monday.

The right offensive end for eight seasons said "I haven't been satisfied with my recent performance and I feel it best for both the team and myself to bow out at this time."

After the Colts won the National Football League season in 1958 and 1959, Mutscheller played the entire 1960 season with an injured knee. It was operated on before last season.

Mutscheller offered to play temporarily next season if the Colts needed an end because of injuries.

Toronto Leafs Capture Hockey Title On Road

That Makes Up Real Champs, Coach Says

TORONTO, (AP) — "It's good we won it on the road. That makes us real champions."

That was Red Kelly's comment Monday on the 2-1 victory scored by the Toronto Maple Leafs at Chicago Sunday night to win the Stanley Cup in six games from the Black Hawks.

"Until the last one, we hadn't won a road game in this year's playoffs," Kelly said. "If we'd won it in Toronto, people might have called us second-rate champions. What's more, the Black Hawks were defending champions, and when you can beat them in the big one, in front of that wild Chicago crowd, you deserve to be called champions."

Most of the people in Toronto felt the same way. A crowd of some 3,000 met the team at the airport in the wee hours when they brought the cup home, and there will be an official city ticker tape parade and reception on Wednesday.

The Leafs last won the cup in 1951.

Odds-On In Preakness

BALTIMORE — The last colt to go to post as odds-on favorite in the Preakness was D&H Stable's Needles in 1956. He finished second to Fabius that year.

Nichols Wins Playoff For Houston Classic Golf Title

Sinks 8-Foot Putt For Eagle 3 On 19th To Cop $9,000 Prize

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP) — Bobby Nichols, after recovering beautifully from a bad tee shot, sank an eight-foot putt for an eagle three on the 19th hole of a scheduled 18-hole playoff Monday and won $9,000 in top money in the $50,000 Houston Golf Classic.

Nichols, 26, a Midland, Tex., pro and Dan Sikes of Jacksonville, Fla., had finished the regulation 18 holes of the three-way playoff with Jack Nicklaus in a deadlock with one-over-par 71s Sikes calmly sank a birdie putt after seeing Nichols sink his jackpot eagle.

Nicklaus, the 1961 National Amateur champion in his first year as a pro, was eliminated from the sudden-death playoff by posting a 76, six over par for the 7,100-yard par 70 Memorial Park course. Nicklaus had seven bogies for the day, missing six greens and three-putting another.

Sikes and Nicklaus received $3,800 each.

The threesome had forced the playoff Sunday by finishing 72 holes in a tie at 278.

It was the fourth straight playoff for the Classic and the second straight sudden death finish. Jay Hebert won $7,000 a year ago with a birdie putt on the 19th hole in his playoff with Ken Venturi.

Jim Mutscheller, Baltimore Colts' Player, Retires

BALTIMORE (AP) — Jim Mutscheller, another mainstay of the heyday of the Baltimore Colts, joined the retired ranks Monday.

The right offensive end for eight seasons said "I haven't been satisfied with my recent performance and I feel it best for both the team and myself to bow out at this time."

After the Colts won the National Football League season in 1958 and 1959, Mutscheller played the entire 1960 season with an injured knee. It was operated on before last season.

Mutscheller offered to play temporarily next season if the Colts needed an end because of injuries.

Rocking Chair Loop Will Meet Tonight

A meeting of the Rocking Chair Softball League will be held today at 8 p.m., at the Wilson Hardware Company Building, North Mechanic street.

The by-laws committee of Cecil Grimes, of the V.F.W., John Vocke, Celanese A.A. and Jim Angellatta, Caseys, will make its report and the league's umpire-in-chief for the 1962 season will be appointed.

The league will open its twenty-third season on Tuesday, May 8.

Old Exports To Drill

The Barrelville Old Exports of the Pen-Mar Baseball League will practice Wednesday at 5:30 p.m.

Toronto Leafs Capture Hockey Title On Road

That Makes Up Real Champs, Coach Says

TORONTO, (AP) — "It's good we won it on the road. That makes us real champions."

That was Red Kelly's comment Monday on the 2-1 victory scored by the Toronto Maple Leafs at Chicago Sunday night to win the Stanley Cup in six games from the Black Hawks.

"Until the last one, we hadn't won a road game in this year's playoffs," Kelly said. "If we'd won it in Toronto, people might have called us second-rate champions. What's more, the Black Hawks were defending champions, and when you can beat them in the big one, in front of that wild Chicago crowd, you deserve to be called champions."

Most of the people in Toronto felt the same way. A crowd of some 3,000 met the team at the airport in the wee hours when they brought the cup home, and there will be an official city ticker tape parade and reception on Wednesday.

The Leafs last won the cup in 1951.

Odds-On In Preakness

BALTIMORE — The last colt to go to post as odds-on favorite in the Preakness was D&H Stable's Needles in 1956. He finished second to Fabius that year.

Nicholas Tops Men's Shuffle League Scorers

Cresaptown Fireman Posts Total Of 428

Francis Nicholas, of the Cresaptown Firemen, of the National Division, led all scorers in the Allegany County Men's Shuffleboard League for the 1961-62 season with a total of 428 points, according to statistics compiled by Paul A. Stitcher, secretary.

Joe Love, of the Cumberland Knights of Columbus, and Tommy O'Toole, of the Redmen Club, tied for the lead in the American Division with 374 points.

Bob Robinette holds the all-time high score for a 31-game sesaon with 531 points. Love holds the record for a 28-game season with 528 tallies.

The high single game score for the season was made by George "Pruny" Kraft, of the Cumberland Eagles, who shot a 43. C. Flinn, of the Cresaptown Firemen, had a high game of 48 points but this was disallowed because the team this was scored against was disqualified from league play.

Bill Laurent of the Purple Heart Club holds the all-time high of 58 for a single game.

Trophies and other prizes for the past season will be presented at a dance to be held Thursday, April 26 at the Cumberland Eagles Home. Happy Laughner and his band will play for the dancing from 9 p. m. to 1 a. m.

The following players scored 300 or more points during the season:

Women's Shuffle League Playoffs To Open Tonight

Playoffs in the Allegany County Women's Shuffleboard League will get under way tonight between the Golden Nugget and the Corriganville Auxiliary at Corriganville at 8:30 o'clock.

Golden Nugget won the regular season race with a 62-22 record while Corriganville wound up in third place with 57 wins and 27 losses.

The semi-final series will be six games, (total points) three of which will be staged tonight.

Purple Heart Club, the runner-up, with a 59-25 record, opens its series with Ruth's Tavern, which finished fourth (52-32), Wednesday night at 8:30 at Ruth's Tavern.

Baltimore Writers Honor Hitchcock

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore chapter of the Baseball Writers Association of America set some new records Monday night.

The organization presented a plaque to rookie manager Billy Hitchcock of the Baltimore Orioles for his friendliness with the press, although the Orioles have played only 10 games so far in the young 1962 season.

The plaque was presented at a chapter dinner honoring the late Jim Ellis of West Virginia, a former baseball writer for the Baltimore Evening Sun.

The second record set by the chapter was a more informal one. Not only did the members pay for the plaque presented to Hitchcock, they also paid for their own meals and drinks as well as treating the Oriole manager.

Lonaconing Angler Catches Large Pike In Deep Creek Lake

What is believed to be one of the largest great northern pike ever caught in Deep Creek Lake was hooked on Sunday afternoon by Basil Morris, of 126 Jackson street, Lonaconing.

The fish was 33¾ inches long and weighed 7¾ pounds.

UMP WAS CATCHER

PITTSBURGH (UPI)— National League Umpire Vinnie Smith caught for the Pittsburgh Pirates in 1941 and 1946.

SPECTATOR NOW—In uniform either as a player or manager for the last quarter of a century, Paul Richards now watches the games from off the field. His job this year is general manager of the Houston Colts.

(At Stitcher Field)

Coach Enordo "Moose" Arnone's Beall High School tossers opened their Allegany County High School League season with a 9-3 victory over Mt. Savage High School Indians yesterday at Frostburg and tied Bruce High School for first place in the Western Division of the circuit.

The Mountaineers scored all their runs in the first four innings in beating Wayne Howell, Mt. Savage southpaw, who was replaced by Don Engle in the fifth frame.

Jim Diehl toiled five innings on the rubber for Beall and held a commanding lead when he retired in favor of Ronnie Werner in the sixth frame. Diehl gave up three hits, struck out seven and gave up as many bases on balls.

A two-run triple by Jerry Cole featured Beall's 4-run outburst in the opening frame. Allan Eisel and Jim Wilson shared four of the Mountaineers' seven safeties. Mt. Savage was limited to four singles.

Fort Hill High School opens defense of its title today when it meets LaSalle's Explorers in the first game between city rivals at Stitcher Field at 4 p. m.

Coach John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh's Sentinels posted an 11-1 record in the league last season and wound up with a six-game winning streak after dropping a 6-5 decision to Beall High School. Fort Hill swept the city series last season by downing LaSalle, 10-5 and 7-2, and took three games from Allegany, 1-0, 3-0 and 4-2.

George Geatz is handling the reigns at LaSalle for the 5th year.

Moose Team Wins, 2-1

The Loyal Order of Moose team wound up its regular schedule in the Frostburg Women's Shuffleboard League by scoring a 2-1 win over the Tee Pee last evening. Peg Lewis of Moose and Mary Engle of Tee Pee paced the scorers with 18 points each. Two more league matches are scheduled Wednesday night.

Merry Ruler Cops Toboggan At Aqueduct

Cops $14,885 Purse Before 36,433 Fans

NEW YORK, N.Y., April 23 (AP) — Henry O. H. Frelinghuysen's Merry Ruler came off the pace to win the 69th running of the $22,900 Toboggan Handicap at Aqueduct race track today.

Merry Ruler, 4-year-old son of Grey Sovereign-Queen of Sing, ridden by Ismael Valenzuela, stepped the six furlongs in the moderate time of 1:11 1/5 to win by a neck over William C. Partee's Rullah Red, who saved the place by three lengths over Ogden Phipps' Hitting Away.

Tinkham Veale 2nd's Vital Force led until the top of the stretch with Rullah Red taking over at that point. The latter appeared to have the race put away until Merry Ruler made his run in deep stretch to win going away.

Given but moderate support in the betting by the crowd of 36,433, Merry Ruler returned the across the board mutuels of $10.70, $5.50 and $3.90. Rullah Red paid $6.00 and $4.00 and Hitting Away was $4.00 to show.

Merry Ruler earned a net purse of $14,885 for Mr. Frelinghuysen, Morristown, N.J. sportsman, who serves in the dual capacity as president of the New Jersey Thoroughbred Breeders Association, and New Jersey Historical Society.

Fort Hill at LaSalle (4:00)
(At Stitcher Field)

Coach Enordo "Moose" Arnone's Beall High School tossers opened their Allegany County High School League season with a 9-3 victory over Mt. Savage High School Indians yesterday at Frostburg and tied Bruce High School for first place in the Western Division of the circuit.

The Mountaineers scored all their runs in the first four innings in beating Wayne Howell, Mt. Savage southpaw, who was replaced by Don Engle in the fifth frame.

Jim Diehl toiled five innings on the rubber for Beall and held a commanding lead when he retired in favor of Ronnie Werner in the sixth frame. Diehl gave up three hits, struck out seven and gave up as many bases on balls.

A two-run triple by Jerry Cole featured Beall's 4-run outburst in the opening frame. Allan Eisel and Jim Wilson shared four of the Mountaineers' seven safeties. Mt. Savage was limited to four singles.

Fort Hill High School opens defense of its title today when it meets LaSalle's Explorers in the first game between city rivals at Stitcher Field at 4 p. m.

Coach John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh's Sentinels posted an 11-1 record in the league last season and wound up with a six-game winning streak after dropping a 6-5 decision to Beall High School. Fort Hill swept the city series last season by downing LaSalle, 10-5 and 7-2, and took three games from Allegany, 1-0, 3-0 and 4-2.

George Geatz is handling the reigns at LaSalle for the 5th year.

Moose Team Wins, 2-1

The Loyal Order of Moose team wound up its regular schedule in the Frostburg Women's Shuffleboard League by scoring a 2-1 win over the Tee Pee last evening. Peg Lewis of Moose and Mary Engle of Tee Pee paced the scorers with 18 points each. Two more league matches are scheduled Wednesday night.

Merry Ruler Cops Toboggan At Aqueduct

Cops $14,885 Purse Before 36,433 Fans

NEW YORK, N.Y., April 23 (AP) — Henry O. H. Frelinghuysen's Merry Ruler came off the pace to win the 69th running of the $22,900 Toboggan Handicap at Aqueduct race track today.

Merry Ruler, 4-year-old son of Grey Sovereign-Queen of Sing, ridden by Ismael Valenzuela, stepped the six furlongs in the moder

Steels Retain Spotlight In Mixed Stock Market

NEW YORK (UPI)—Steels continued to hold the spotlight in a mixed and moderately active stock market Monday.

The group turned sharply lower early in the session with some issues dropping more than 3 points on rumors U.S. Steel might cut its dividend Tuesday, setting a new course of action for the industry.

However the group bottomed out before the American Iron & Steel Institute reported a further drop in industry output last week and the final hour found the section staging an apparently technical rally.

U.S. Steel finished 2⅛ lower, Bethlehem lost ½, Jones & Laughlin ¾, Republic 1¾, Youngstown 1⅛½ and Armco 1¾. Lukens, however, added 1⅝, and Simonds Saw 1¼ ,the latter on sharply higher earnings.

Trading amounted to 3,240,000 shares against 3,100,000 shares on Thursday—the last time the market was open. With a total of 1,314 issues traded, 491 advanced and 577 declined. New highs for the year were set by 33 issues, new lows by 84.

Dow-Jones averages showed industrials up 0.36, rails off 0.16 and utilities up 0.70. Standard & Poor's comprehensive 500 stock index showed a loss of 0.06.

Steels Retain Spotlight In Mixed Stock Market

NEW YORK (UPI)—Steels continued to hold the spotlight in a mixed and moderately active stock market Monday.

The group turned sharply lower early in the session with some issues dropping more than 3 points on rumors U.S. Steel might cut its dividend Tuesday, setting a new course of action for the industry.

However the group bottomed out before the American Iron & Steel Institute reported a further drop in industry output last week and the final hour found the section staging an apparently technical rally.

U.S. Steel finished 2⅛ lower, Bethlehem lost ½, Jones & Laughlin ¾, Republic 1¾, Youngstown ⅛½ and Armco 1¾. Lukens, however, added 1⅝, and Simonds Saw 1¼ ,the latter on sharply higher earnings.

Trading amounted to 3,240,000 shares against 3,100,000 shares on Thursday—the last time the market was open. With a total of 1,314 issues traded, 491 advanced and 577 declined. New highs for the year were set by 33 issues, new lows by 84.

Dow-Jones averages showed industrials up 0.36, rails off 0.16 and utilities up 0.70. Standard & Poor's comprehensive 500 stock index showed a loss of 0.06.

Coping with a seven card trump holding presents a severe mental hazard to a great many players. When the opposition holds six trumps, maintaining control of the hand is apt to be a very tenuous proposition. Even an experienced declarer may stumble and fall, as will be seen in today's hand.

The bidding meets with our approval. South's sequence of calls describes a powerful hand with two good five card suits. North was eventually obliged to admit a reluctant preference for spades, and it turned out that this was the only game contract that had a legitimate play.

West opened the three of diamonds and East's king went to the ace. Declarer immediately ruffed the three of clubs in dummy in order to dispose of a possible loser in that suit. The eight of spades was led next and passed into West's queen. A low diamond brought forth the jack from East and a trump from declarer. The king of spades drove out the ace but another diamond reduced declarer to a single trump. He now played the jack of spades but, when East showed out, West still had a spade left to regain the lead subsequently and cash the setting trick with the queen of diamonds.

Rather than trying to pull trumps with only a bare majority, declarer should have planned to cash as many of his side tricks as possible, and then put dummy's trumps to good use by ruffing out the excess clubs.

After winning the diamond opening, South can lead a heart over to the king and then return to his ace. Then come three high clubs to which everyone follows. Next the trey of clubs is trumped with the eight of spades. If anyone overruffs, declarer need not be concerned, for he is now assured of 10 tricks. When the eight of spades holds, a diamond is trumped in the closed hand and the last club is led toward dummy's nine of spades. On this line of play the defenders will be restricted to the ace and queen of trumps.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm at the end of my string with our 9-year-old son Herbert. He'd rather tell a lie than tell the truth. I get a call from school every other week saying he's in some sort of trouble. His teacher claims he needs "patience and understanding" but I've been patient and understanding until I'm blue in the face. I think what he really needs is a good thrashing.

Yesterday he took a dollar bill out of my purse. I saw him do it. He didn't know I was in the next room watching him in the wall mirror. After five minutes I went to my purse, took out the remaining money and told him a dollar was missing. He said he "hadn't seen it. I told him to look all over because it couldn't have gone far.

In a few minutes he handed me the dollar and said he had found it in the sofa cushion.

His younger sisters never give us any trouble. What's wrong with this child? What shall we do with him? — G. D.

DEAR MRS. G. D.: When children steal is a symptom of a deeper problem. Experts tell us that such youngsters feel unloved and they steal in an attempt to compensate for the lack of love and attention.

The manner in which you compare the boy with his sisters is a revealing clue. I hope you will take this child to a professional who deals with troubled children —and soon.

DEAR ANN LANDERS:: I've been going with a lovely man who is 38 and has never been married. I lost my husband (in the divorce court) four years ago and I would like very much to marry again. This man could be THE one, but I have a difficult problem.

He travels during the week and the only evenings we can be together are Friday and Saturday. Greg has a sister who is not well and her 10-year-old son has become quite attached to his uncle. Every Friday and Saturday the youngster is with us for dinner and the evening. Wherever we go, he goes. This has been the program for eight months.

How can Greg and I ever get serious when we have this youngster with us constantly? What do you suggest? — TRI-CORNORED

DEAR TRI: Don't look now, but you've got a 10-year-old chaperone. If Greg wanted to get serious, he'd be figuring out ways to get this kid lost. You wouldn't be writing — he would.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I hate to bother you because I know you are busy with more important things, but please help me if you can.

I'm a girl 13. My father just hates to see a girl wearing slacks, jeans, pedal-pushers, Bermudas, riding britches — any kind of trousers. He thinks it looks terrible. When I go on a hay-ride, skating or bicycling I'm always the only girl in a skirt. He says "fine. You're the only one in the crowd who is a real lady."

He thinks you give good advice —especially when you agree with him. Please, help me — MARGIE

DEAR MARGIE: Your dad probably saw the rear-view of some Two-Ton Tessie in tight slacks and that ruined it for everybody. I say a teenage girl should be permitted to wear properly fitted slacks for informal events. And incidentally, a shirt while bicycling could be downright hazardous.

CONFIDENTIAL TO BEST DRESSED BELLE: You're trying to run with the hare and the hounds and it won't work. Give him the heave ho and get back your selfrespect. Clothes aren't THAT important.

Aare your parents too strict? You can benefit from the experiences of thousands of teenagers if you write for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

THE COUNTY COMMISSIONERS OF ALLEGANY COUNTY, MARYLAND

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING OF PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO ORDINANCE #1, ENTITLED "INTERIM ZONING ORDINANCE, ALLEGANY COUNTY, MARYLAND" ADOPTED OCTOBER 20, 1961, AND TO ORDINANCE #2 OF ALLEGANY COUNTY, ESTABLISHING A SCHEDULE OF FEES IN CONNECTION WITH THE ADMINISTRATION OF THE INTERIM ZONING ORDINANCE FOR ALLEGANY COUNTY, ADOPTED NOVEMBER 7, 1961.

In accordance with the provisions of Section 21 (d) and (e) of Article 66B of the Annotated Code of Maryland (1957 Edition) entitled "Zoning and Planning", notice is hereby given that a public hearing will be held by the County Commissioners of Allegany County, in the County Commissioners' meeting room at the Court House, Washington Street, Cumberland, Maryland, on the 3rd day of May, 1962, at 7:30 P. M. EDST, for the purpose of considering amendments to Section 9, page 9, paragraph (c) of Ordinance #1 of Allegany County aforesaid, as follows:

(CAPITALS indicate amendments)

(c) It shall have a gross floor area in square feet, excluding any additions which were not a part of the original manufactured unit, equal to at least 60% of the average gross main floor areas in square feet per dwelling unit of all the existing dwellings within a radius of 1000 feet, but in no case shall the floor area be less than 500 square feet, EXCEPT AS PROVIDED IN PARAGRAPHS (e) AND (f) OF THIS SECTION.

And to add the following additional paragraphs to Section 9 of Ordinance #1, aforesaid:

(e) PROVIDED, HOWEVER, THAT ON A FARM ANY PRIVATE MOBILE HOME OR TRAILER HOUSE WITHOUT QUALIFICATIONS OR CONDITIONS EXCEPT FOR THE REQUIREMENTS OF THE HEALTH DEPARTMENT, SHALL BE PERMITTED WHICH IS INCIDENTAL AND ACCESSORY TO THE OPERATION OF SUCH FARM OR IS OCCUPIED BY MEMBERS OF THE FARM FAMILY OR BY ANY FAMILY ENGAGED PRIMARILY IN WORK ON SUCH FARM, ON CONDITION THAT SUCH MOBILE HOME OR TRAILER HOUSE SHALL BE LOCATED AT LEAST (400) FEET FROM ANY PERMANENT DWELLING ON ADJACENT PROPERTY AND SHALL COMPLY WITH THE SETBACK REQUIREMENTS IN SECTION 11;

(f) AND PROVIDED FURTHER, THAT IN A REMOTE OR ISOLATED AREA ANY PRIVATE MOBILE HOME, TRAILER HOUSE, TENT OR CAMP WITHOUT QUALIFICATIONS OR CONDITIONS EXCEPT FOR THE REQUIREMENTS OF THE HEALTH DEPARTMENT, SHALL BE PERMITTED FOR SEASONAL USE IN CONNECTION WITH A RECREATIONAL, HUNTING, OR FISHING USE OF ADJACENT LAND, ON CONDITION THAT SUCH STRUCTURE SHALL BE LOCATED AT LEAST (400) FEET FROM ANY PERMANENT DWELLING ON ADJACENT PROPERTY AND SHALL COMPLY WITH THE SETBACK REQUIREMENTS IN SECTION 11.

And to consider amendments to Section 11, page 11, by adding the following paragraph at the end of the said Section 11:

TEMPORARY BUILDINGS. TEMPORARY BUILDINGS INCLUDING MOBILE HOMES AND OTHER TRAILERS MAY BE USED ON THE SITE OF AND INCIDENTAL TO CONSTRUCTION WORK IN ANY DISTRICT, SUBJECT TO COMPLIANCE WITH THE SETBACK AND SIDE YARD REQUIREMENTS IN SECTION 10 AND WITH THE REQUIREMENTS OF THE HEALTH DEPARTMENT; PROVIDED THAT ANY SUCH BUILDINGS AND USES SHALL BE REMOVED UPON THE COMPLETION OR ABANDONMENT OF THE CONSTRUCTION WORK OR AT THE END OF TWO (2) YEARS, WHICHEVER IS SOONER, EXCEPT THAT AN EXTENSION OF TIME MAY BE AUTHORIZED BY THE BOARD OF APPEALS UPON APPLICATION THEREFOR.

And to amend Sub-Section (b) of Section 1 of Ordinance #2, by deleting therefrom the sum of $15.00, and adding in lieu thereof, $5.00.

The above amendments are pursuant to the recommendations of the Allegany County Planning and Zoning Commission as forwarded to the County Commissioners of Allegany County on April 10, 1962.

All interested persons are invited to appear and to be heard at the above declared time and place.

Copies of the proposed changes may be obtained from the office of the County Commissioners, the Court House Building, Washington Street, Cumberland, Maryland.

Coping with a seven card trump holding presents a severe mental hazard to a great many players. When the opposition holds six trumps, maintaining control of the hand is apt to be a very tenuous proposition. Even an experienced declarer may stumble and fall, as will be seen in today's hand.

The bidding meets with our approval. South's sequence of calls describes a powerful hand with two good five card suits. North was eventually obliged to admit a reluctant preference for spades, and it turned out that this was the only game contract that had a legitimate play.

West opened the three of diamonds and East's king went to the ace. Declarer immediately ruffed the three of clubs in dummy in order to dispose of a possible loser in that suit. The eight of spades was led next and passed into West's queen. A low diamond brought forth the jack from East and a trump from declarer. The king of spades drove out the ace but another diamond reduced declarer to a single trump. He now played the jack of spades but, when East showed out, West still had a spade left to regain the lead subsequently and cash the setting trick with the queen of diamonds.

Rather than trying to pull trumps with only a bare majority, declarer should have planned to cash as many of his side tricks as possible, and then put dummy's trumps to good use by ruffing out the excess clubs.

After winning the diamond opening, South can lead a heart over to the king and then return to his ace. Then come three high clubs to which everyone follows. Next the trey of clubs is trumped with the eight of spades. If anyone overruffs, declarer need not be concerned, for he is now assured of 10 tricks. When the eight of spades holds, a diamond is trumped in the closed hand and the last club is led toward dummy's nine of spades. On this line of play the defenders will be restricted to the ace and queen of trumps.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm at the end of my string with our 9-year-old son Herbert. He'd rather tell a lie than tell the truth. I get a call from school every other week saying he's in some sort of trouble. His teacher claims he needs "patience and understanding" but I've been patient and understanding until I'm blue in the face. I think what he really needs is a good thrashing.

Yesterday he took a dollar bill out of my purse. I saw him do it. He didn't know I was in the next room watching him in the wall mirror. After five minutes I went to my purse, took out the remaining money and told him a dollar was missing. He said he "hadn't seen it. I told him to look all over because it couldn't have gone far.

In a few minutes he handed me the dollar and said he had found it in the sofa cushion.

His younger sisters never give us any trouble. What's wrong with this child? What shall we do with him? — G. D.

DEAR MRS. G. D.: When children steal is is a symptom of a deeper problem. Experts tell us that such youngsters feel unloved and they steal in an attempt to compensate for the lack of love and attention.

The manner in which you compare the boy with his sisters is a revealing clue. I hope you will take this child to a professional who deals with troubled children —and soon.

DEAR ANN LANDERS:: I've been going with a lovely man who is 38 and has never been married. I lost my husband (in the divorce court) four years ago and I would like very much to marry again. This man could be THE one, but I have a difficult problem.

He travels during the week and the only evenings we can be together are Friday and Saturday. Greg has a sister who is not well and her 10-year-old son has become quite attached to his uncle. Every Friday and Saturday the youngster is with us for dinner and the evening. Wherever we go, he goes. This has been the program for eight months.

How can Greg and I ever get serious when we have this youngster with us constantly? What do you suggest? — TRI-CORNORED

DEAR TRI: Don't look now, but you've got a 10-year-old chaperone. If Greg wanted to get serious, he'd be figuring out ways to get this kid lost. You wouldn't be writing — he would.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I hate to bother you because I know you are busy with more important things, but please help me if you can.

I'm a girl 13. My father just hates to see a girl wearing slacks, jeans, pedal-pushers, Bermudas, riding britches — any kind of trousers. He thinks it looks terrible. When I go on a hay-ride, skating or bicycling I'm always the only girl in a skirt. He says "fine. You're the only one in the crowd who is a real lady."

He thinks you give good advice —especially when you agree with him. Please, help me — MARGIE

DEAR MARGIE: Your dad probably saw the rear-view of some Two-Ton Tessie in tight slacks and that ruined it for everybody. I say a teenage girl should be permitted to wear properly fitted slacks for informal events. And incidentally, a shirt while bicycling could be downright hazardous.

CONFIDENTIAL TO BEST DRESSED BELLE: You're trying to run with the hare and the hounds and it won't work. Give him the heave ho and get back your selfrespect. Clothes aren't THAT important.

Aare your parents too strict? You can benefit from the experiences of thousands of teenagers if you write for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

THE COUNTY COMMISSIONERS OF ALLEGANY COUNTY, MARYLAND

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING OF PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO ORDINANCE #1, ENTITLED "INTERIM ZONING ORDINANCE, ALLEGANY COUNTY, MARYLAND" ADOPTED OCTOBER 20, 1961, AND TO ORDINANCE #2 OF ALLEGANY COUNTY, ESTABLISHING A SCHEDULE OF FEES IN CONNECTION WITH THE ADMINISTRATION OF THE INTERIM ZONING ORDINANCE FOR ALLEGANY COUNTY, ADOPTED NOVEMBER 7, 1961.

In accordance with the provisions of Section 21 (d) and (e) of Article 66B of the Annotated Code of Maryland (1957 Edition) entitled "Zoning and Planning", notice is hereby given that a public hearing will be held by the County Commissioners of Allegany County, in the County Commissioners' meeting room at the Court House, Washington Street, Cumberland, Maryland, on the 3rd day of May, 1962, at 7:30 P. M. EDST, for the purpose of considering amendments to Section 9, page 9, paragraph (c) of Ordinance #1 of Allegany County aforesaid, as follows:

(CAPITALS indicate amendments)

(c) It shall have a gross floor area in square feet, excluding any additions which were not a part of the original manufactured unit, equal to at least 60% of the average gross main floor areas in square feet per dwelling unit of all the existing dwellings within a radius of 1000 feet, but in no case shall the floor area be less than 500 square feet, EXCEPT AS PROVIDED IN PARAGRAPHS (e) AND (f) OF THIS SECTION.

And to add the following additional paragraphs to Section 9 of Ordinance #1, aforesaid:

(e) PROVIDED, HOWEVER, THAT ON A FARM ANY PRIVATE MOBILE HOME OR TRAILER HOUSE WITHOUT QUALIFICATIONS OR CONDITIONS EXCEPT FOR THE REQUIREMENTS OF THE HEALTH DEPARTMENT, SHALL BE PERMITTED WHICH IS INCIDENTAL AND ACCESSORY TO THE OPERATION OF SUCH FARM OR IS OCCUPIED BY MEMBERS OF THE FARM FAMILY OR BY ANY FAMILY ENGAGED PRIMARILY IN WORK ON SUCH FARM, ON CONDITION THAT SUCH MOBILE HOME OR TRAILER HOUSE SHALL BE LOCATED AT LEAST (400) FEET FROM ANY PERMANENT DWELLING ON ADJACENT PROPERTY AND SHALL COMPLY WITH THE SETBACK REQUIREMENTS IN SECTION 11;

(f) AND PROVIDED FURTHER, THAT IN A REMOTE OR ISOLATED AREA ANY PRIVATE MOBILE HOME, TRAILER HOUSE, TENT OR CAMP WITHOUT QUALIFICATIONS OR CONDITIONS EXCEPT FOR THE REQUIREMENTS OF THE HEALTH DEPARTMENT, SHALL BE PERMITTED FOR SEASONAL USE IN CONNECTION WITH A RECREATIONAL, HUNTING, OR FISHING USE OF ADJACENT LAND, ON CONDITION THAT SUCH STRUCTURE SHALL BE LOCATED AT LEAST (400) FEET FROM ANY PERMANENT DWELLING ON ADJACENT PROPERTY AND SHALL COMPLY WITH THE SETBACK REQUIREMENTS IN SECTION 11.

And to consider amendments to Section 11, page 11, by adding the following paragraph at the end of the said Section 11:

TEMPORARY BUILDINGS. TEMPORARY BUILDINGS INCLUDING MOBILE HOMES AND OTHER TRAILERS MAY BE USED ON THE SITE OF AND INCIDENTAL TO CONSTRUCTION WORK IN ANY DISTRICT, SUBJECT TO COMPLIANCE WITH THE SETBACK AND SIDE YARD REQUIREMENTS IN SECTION 10 AND WITH THE REQUIREMENTS OF THE HEALTH DEPARTMENT; PROVIDED THAT ANY SUCH BUILDINGS AND USES SHALL BE REMOVED UPON THE COMPLETION OR ABANDONMENT OF THE CONSTRUCTION WORK OR AT THE END OF TWO (2) YEARS, WHICHEVER IS SOONER, EXCEPT THAT AN EXTENSION OF TIME MAY BE AUTHORIZED BY THE BOARD OF APPEALS UPON APPLICATION THEREFOR.

And to amend Sub-Section (b) of Section 1 of Ordinance #2, by deleting therefrom the sum of $15.00, and adding in lieu thereof, $5.00.

The above amendments are pursuant to the recommendations of the Allegany County Planning and Zoning Commission as forwarded to the County Commissioners of Allegany County on April 10, 1962.

All interested persons are invited to appear and to be heard at the above declared time and place.

Copies of the proposed changes may be obtained from the office of the County Commissioners, the Court House Building, Washington Street, Cumberland, Maryland.

Fringe Benefit Plan Outlined By Local 812

City Takes Request Under Advisement

The Mayor and Council yesterday took under advisement changes in fringe benefits requested by Local 812, Municipal Workers Union.

The program was presented to city officials by Joseph Blacklin, president, at a post-council meeting. Four members of the union which represents Street and Water department workers, attended.

The program, as outlined by the union, includes:

A request for a whole day off on Good Friday, instead of a half-day.

Ask Four Weeks

On vacations — four weeks' vacation after 10 years of service. The present plan calls for one week after one year, two weeks after two years and three weeks after five years of service.

Pointing out that police and firemen, if injured on the job, get one full year off with pay, the union asked a similar plan for its members, set up under home rule.

Unemployment compensation was the fourth request.

Accumulation of sick leave up to 90 days was the final request. City workers now get up to 15 working days a year as sick leave, which may be accumulated up to 60 days.

Are Discretionary

At present, city workers have six paid holidays — New Year, Memorial Day, Independence Day, Labor Day, Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Other holidays, such as the half days on Good Friday and Cumberland day at Fairgo, and long weekends, are granted by specific orders and at the discretion of the Mayor and Council.

Mayor Keech said city officials gave no answer but told the delegation they will discuss the proposals.

Get First Aid Instruction

Mrs. Charles E. Brode, left, and Mrs. Dorothy Mehle, get instruction from Dr. Rita Brinker, standing, on how to apply an arm splint. Dr. Brinker, Red Cross first aid instructor, is teaching standard first aid course to a combined class of members of SS. Peter and Paul PTA and volunteers for Red Cross Motor Corps. The ten-hour course will be completed May 3. The first aid course is a requirement for all members of the Red Cross Motor Corps.

Students May Cast Absentee Primary Votes

Thursday Is Last For Applying

Students of bonafide schools, colleges, hospitals, and similar institutions, who are eligible Maryland voters, may cast absentee ballots in the approaching primary election May 15.

John R. Kelly, Democratic registrar and chief clerk of the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors, said the deadline for applications for an absentee ballot is Thursday, April 26.

The students became eligible when a change in the election laws of Maryland was made during the recent session of the General Assembly at Annapolis.

The change is as follows:

"A qualified voter, who on the occasion of any primary or general or special election, may be unavoidably absent from the state of Maryland, for whatever reason on the day of election, may vote as an absentee voter under this sub-title.

"A voter who is otherwise qualified and who is also a full time and regular student in a bonafide school, college, hospital or similar institution and who is unavoidably absent from the county or Baltimore City, in which he is registered, as case may be, on occurrance of any primary or general or special election also may vote as an absentee voter under this subtitle."

Eligible voters in the armed services must apply for an application for an absentee ballot five days prior to an election.

Those persons who are under a physician's care and unable to appear at the polls to vote may get an absentee ballot provided he or she has a doctor's certificate. The application must be applied for no later than 10 days prior to an election.

Miss Cumberland Jaycee Pageant Judges Named

Judges for the Miss Cumberland Jaycee competition have been selected, according to John F. Workmeister Jr. and Joseph Yockus, co-chairmen of the judges committee.

One of the contestants will be Miss Mary Ann McConnell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward McConnell, 534 Maryland Avenue. A 1961 graduate of Catholic Girls Central High School, she enjoys swimming, diving, dancing, tennis and modeling. She has modeled at several area stores and presently is employed at Lazarus' in Cumberland.

MARY ANN McCONNELL

The Miss Cumberland Jaycee competition is an official "Miss America" preliminary. As a consequence judges were selected in accordance with qualifications established by the committee for the selection of the national panel of judges. National selection is made on the basis of excellent character and experience in television, radio, art, music, drama, dancing, and education.

Serving on the panel to determine which of seven finalists is best qualified to represent Cumberland in the "Miss Maryland" competition to be held at Salisbury in July will be Dr. Ward K. Cole, head of the music department at Frostburg State Teachers College; Mrs. Colleen Nelson of Pinto, a former "Mrs. Maryland;" George A. Caswell, vice president of Second National Bank of Cumberland; Mrs. Peggy Mackert, dance instructor and operator of Mackert Dance Studios; James "Doc" Webster, well-known local radio announcer.

Contestants will be judged on the basis of beauty, both physical and spiritual; character, poise, talent and intelligence.

The pageant is being held under the auspices of the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce and the Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company. Ed Enderle is general chairman of the pageant, the first of this kind to be held in several years in Cumberland.

Joseph Gratton and Gaylord Brooks, social chairmen, have made arrangements for the affair to be held at the Clarysville Inn at 8 p.m. Friday.

The pageant will be open to the general public and dancing will follow the contest, with music by the Moderaires. Tickets may be purchased at the door or from any Jaycee. The price covers both the pageant and dance.

Leaking Gas Tank Blame For Blaze

Gurley's Garage Opens As Usual

A leaking gas tank in a car parked on the second floor of Gurley's Garage was listed as the probable cause of the fire which caused considerable damage to the establishment Sunday night.

Fire Chief Virgil Parker said the car was parked near a wall in the middle section of the garage — the spot where the fire started.

He said, following an extensive inspection yesterday, that a natural gas heater was located above where the car was parked, and theorized that fumes from the leaking gasoline tank rose to the heater where they ignited.

Chief Parker said the downstairs door of the garage was open and that the draft set up would have directed the fumes toward the heater.

Tires Catch Fire

The blaze at that point was fed by a pile of tires stored nearby, which ignited.

The intense heat, Chief Parker said, found its way through a metal false ceiling and then mushroomed out and set fire to the roof.

He said firemen had to pull down most of the metal ceiling, foot by foot, to get to the flames, and cut holes in the roof to give the flames and smoke a chance to escape.

The fire chief said about a third of the roof was damaged and will have to be replaced.

There was extensive damage, he reported, to two of the cars parked in the center section, the only area affected by the fire.

Escape Damage

Cars parked in other sections of the floor, he said, were undamaged.

Chief Parker said the main stockroom of the garage is located on the first floor, and that damage was kept to a minimum by firemen who spread tarpaulins.

Chief Parker said the garage opened for business as usual yesterday morning and that repairs are underway.

He said men from Central and West Side fire companies did an "exceptionally good job" in bringing the fire under control.

The blaze proved the value of ventilation — a standard fire fighting procedure which calls for cutting holes in the roof to allow the accumulations of superheated air and flames to escape.

Hercules Helps With Design For Ranger 4

Small Rocket Lowers Velocity

Hercules Powder Company, which operates Allegany Ballistic Laboratory for the Navy, had a hand in the Ranger 4 lunar capsule launched yesterday from Cape Canaveral.

The Ranger 4 required the development of a high-performance solid-propellant retrorocket designed to slow the capsule so it would survive impact on the moon. Hercules, under a contract to Aeronutronic Division of Ford Motor Company, designed a small precise rocket which will reduce the capsule impact velocity to less than 125 miles per hour.

The Ranger retrorocket utilizes the latest principles in solid-propellant rocketry. Essentially, the new motor consists of a very high-energy, composite-modified, double-base propellant cast directly into a Spiralloy case. Spiralloy is a unique structural material of continuous glass filaments impregnated with epoxy resin and possesses the highest strength-to-weight ratio known materials. Spiralloy provides the strongest, lightest rocket motor case available, with weight savings of approximately 60 per cent over that attainable with the highest strength steel.

The chamber is constructed by winding the fiber glass on a mandrel which has been previously assembled with fore and aft aluminum adapters and a rubber insulator. The insulator is used to protect the Spiralloy chamber from the extremely hot combustion gases which develop when the motor is fired. The aluminum adapters are used to attach the nozzle to the motor at one end and the payload at the other. Before removing the mandrel from the chamber a Spiralloy skirt is constructed on the aft end of the motor to provide an attachment to the launching vehicle. Manufacturing is completed by casting the propellant in the rocket chamber, assembling an igniter, and adding a lightweight plastic nozzle.

The loaded and assembled motor, having a total weight of approximately 200 pounds, is dynamically balanced about its longitudinal axis so that it may be spin stabilized in space. The empty case and nozzle together weigh approximately 20 pounds and the unit is slightly over 31 inches in length and 18 inches in diameter.

In order to deliver the velocity increment in a reliable and reproducible manner, and to meet the reproducibility requirements of impulse, the weight of the propellant and of the inert motor parts was kept to close tolerances. In particular, the weight of the motor was controlled to a hundredth of a pound. Reliability and reproducibility were further assured by extensive testing prior to flight. A series of firings was conducted in an enviroment simulating the vacuum conditions of space, while another series of tests was conducted using a unique test fixture which imparted spin to the motor during firing.

Engineering, development, testing and manufacturing of the Range retrorocket was done by Hercules at its Bacchus, Utah, facility. The Spiralloy chambers and igniters were manufactured by Hercules at Rocky Hill, N. J.

Appeal Case Dismissed By State

The State of Maryland has dismissed a criminal appeal by a local man who was sentenced to a year in the Maryland House of Correction when he was given a hearing earlier this year in Trial Magistrate's Court.

John Frank House, 890 Sperry Terrace, had been arrested for the alleged assault of Lena House on January 20 and was sentenced by Trial Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt.

In other criminal appeals heard yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court, a petit jury found a local man not guilty of making false statements to obtain unemployment benefits for 10 weeks, totaling $250.

Trial Magistrate Paul W. Barnett found William J. Lease, 613 Columbia Avenue, guilty of the charge and gave him a 60 day suspended sentence on condition he make restitution in 90 days.

Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris presided at the trial yesterday.

The judge found Edward E. Bray, Box 682, Keyser, guilty of operating a motor vehicle under the influence. Trial Magistrate Barnett on March 3 found the man guilty of the charge and imposed a fine of $100 and costs. His judgment was affirmed yesterday.

Jess Wilson Conner, 413 Grand Avenue, was found not guilty of failure to reduce speed at an intersection when he was tried by Judge Harris. Trial Magistrate Weatherholt had found the man guilty and fined him $10 and costs.

A criminal appeal involving Paul Lumie Yommer on a motor vehicle violation, has been continued.

Oil Filter Blaze Quenched By Firemen

South Cumberland Fire Company was called to the rear of 101-103 Orlando Street late yesterday morning after a fire got out of control.

Firemen said workers from trucking firms were burning old oil filters. The blaze was brought under control in half an hour.

Mahoney, Hume Attack Tawes' Fiscal Policy

Gov. Cites S&L League Endorsement

By The Associated Press

The No. 1 tune on the political hit parade—taxes—was sung over the state Monday by two of the three Democratic contenders for the gubernatorial nomination.

The third candidate—incumbent Gov. J. Millard Tawes—touched on a variety of subjects and led off with the savings and loan issue.

Both George P. Mahoney and David Hume attacked the governor's fiscal policy, with Hume calling it a "program governed by irresponsibility and dedicated to bankruptcy."

"There has not been one single year since Gov. Tawes has been in office in which authorized spending has not exceeded current revenue," Hume said.

"A continuation of the Tawes concept of 'fiscal responsibility' must result in hitting Marylanders with the biggest tax increase in the history of the state."

Hume charged the governor with increasing spending by $200 million and general funds by $100 million in the past four years. He also claimed Maryland taxpayers are putting out $1.53 for every $1 of federal aid, and pointed to similar increases in state and local taxes.

"Gov. Tawes has told his opponents to keep their sense of humor," Hume said. "It may be that the only time this fierce tax increase will hurt is when we laugh."

Mahoney, meanwhile, took exception to the governor's program of state aid.

"By raising the sales tax, and imposing an extra tax on cigarettes, plus a tax on meals, the governor took huge sums from the taxpayers. . .," he said.

"He then divides it by a complicated formula, returns it to the counties and Baltimore City, and calls it state aid."

Mahoney claimed that the formula used to divide the money has made it possible to favor counties like Somerset (Tawes' home county) and Calvert (Comptroller Louis Goldstein's home county) at the expense of Baltimore County and Baltimore City.

Gov. Tawes, in a rhythm familiar to Maryland voters, beat on the savings and loan drum in a speech prepared for delivery before the Anne Arundel County Democrats at Annapolis. He chose as a target previous statements by Mahoney.

"Perhaps he (Mahoney) should be reminded that the Maryland League of Building, Savings and Loan Associations has endorsed the action taken by my administration in enacting an effective regulatory bill," he said.

He pointed out that the league is composed of 114 institutions, none of which has been subjected to either the state or federal law, and added the league has called upon Mahoney to "cease his intemperate and damaging charges which were having an adverse effect on the industry as a whole."

The governor, in outlining the role of his administration in bringing savings and loan regulation to Maryland, claimed the following:

"We discovered the problem. We appointed a special commission to solve the problem. We drafted the law embodying the recommendations of that commission. We fought for enactment of the law both at the regular and special sessions of the General Assembley."

Tawes also was complimentary to his administration on the subjects of mental hygiene, prisons, tax adjustments, roads, and employment.

Local Civil War Unit To Join In Valley Action

HARRISONBURG, Va. (AP) — At least seven reactivated Civil War units are entered in the Stonewall Jackson anniversary march which will start Saturday retracing the famous Shenandoah Valley campaign.

They will be joined by National Guard units in the seven weekend marches over the route which Jackson's stonewall brigade took 100 years ago.

The reactivated units which have formally entered—and which will compete for $1,000 in prize money include:

Second Maryland Brigade, U.S. Volunteers, Amry of the Potomac, Cumberland, Md.; Maj. Fritz Haselberger, commanding.

Newtown Artillery, Alleghany Battery, Winchester, Capt. V. L. Lichliter, commanding.

Company K, 5th Virginia infantry, Winchester, 1st Sgt. John H. Quick, commanding.

Company G, Garrison Forest Rangers, First Maryland Regiment, C.S.A., Baltimore, Col. Michael P. Zacharko, commanding.

Battery G, Chesapeake Artillery, Baltimore, Capt. Bert Dausinger, commanding.

The first leg of the march scheduled will begin at Elkton, Va., for kickoff ceremonies. The group will ride to Port Republic and then march eastward toward Brown's Gap over the Blue Ridge.

After bivouacking overnight, the marchers will continue on to Brown Cove where transportation will take them to Meechams River Station to catch a train to Staunton — just as Gen. Jackson's troops did.

There will be brief trackside ceremonies at Waynesboro and Staunton.

Clarysville Contractor Fatally Hurt

Leslie Irwin Ashby, a 49-year-old self-employed contractor from Clarysville, was fatally injured yesterday morning when he was struck by a small tractor while working at Sunset View.

Mr. Ashby was loading the tractor on a flatbed truck when the tractor slipped off the side of the vehicle and pinned him to the ground.

The contractor was taken to Sacred Heart Hospital by the state police ambulance, but was pronounced dead on arrival of a crushed chest.

The accident was investigated by Sgt. Harry S. Bosley of the State Police. Sgt. Bosley said workers in the area had Mr. Ashby free by the time the ambulance arrived only minutes after the accident.

Mr. Ashby was a self-employed home contractor and was working on a home at Sunset View at the time of the accident.

A native of Crellin, the victim was a son of Robert I. Ashby and the late Ethel (Gnegy) Ashby.

He was a member of Eckhart Methodist Church; Woodmen of the World, Oakland; Kemp Lodge 154, AF & AM at Mt. Savage; Algonquin Forest 140, Tall Cedars of Lebanon and Ali Ghan Shrine Temple.

He also is survived by his widow, Blanche (Colaw) Ashby; two children, Robert L. and Sharon E. Ashby, both at home; two brothers, Elmer W. Ashby, Bowling Green, and A. Dale Ashby, Crellin, and a sister, Mrs. Winifred Kaske, Potomac Park.

Fringe Benefit Plan Outlined By Local 812

City Takes Request Under Advisement

The Mayor and Council yesterday took under advisement changes in fringe benefits requested by Local 812, Municipal Workers Union.

The program was presented to city officials by Joseph Blacklin, president, at a post-council meeting. Four members of the union which represents Street and Water department workers, attended.

The program, as outlined by the union, includes:

A request for a whole day off on Good Friday, instead of a half-day.

Ask Four Weeks

On vacations — four weeks' vacation after 10 years of service. The present plan calls for one week after one year, two weeks after two years and three weeks after five years of service.

Pointing out that police and firemen, if injured on the job, get one full year off with pay, the union asked a similar plan for its members, set up under home rule.

Unemployment compensation was the fourth request.

Accumulation of sick leave up to 90 days was the final request. City workers now get up to 15 working days a year as sick leave, which may be accumulated up to 60 days.

Are Discretionary

At present, city workers have six paid holidays — New Year, Memorial Day, Independence Day, Labor Day, Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Other holidays, such as the half days on Good Friday and Cumberland day at Fairgo, and long weekends, are granted by specific orders and at the discretion of the Mayor and Council.

Mayor Keech said city officials gave no answer but told the delegation they will discuss the proposals.

Appeal Case Dismissed By State

The State of Maryland has dismissed a criminal appeal by a local man who was sentenced to a year in the Maryland House of Correction when he was given a hearing earlier this year in Trial Magistrate's Court.

John Frank House, 890 Sperry Terrace, had been arrested for the alleged assault of Lena House on January 20 and was sentenced by Trial Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt.

In other criminal appeals heard yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court, a petit jury found a local man not guilty of making false statements to obtain unemployment benefits for 10 weeks, totaling $250.

Trial Magistrate Paul W. Barnett found William J. Lease, 613 Columbia Avenue, guilty of the charge and gave him a 60 day suspended sentence on condition he make restitution in 90 days.

Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris presided at the trial yesterday.

The judge found Edward E. Bray, Box 682, Keyser, guilty of operating a motor vehicle under the influence. Trial Magistrate Barnett on March 3 found the man guilty of the charge and imposed a fine of $100 and costs. His judgment was affirmed yesterday.

Jess Wilson Conner, 413 Grand Avenue, was found not guilty of failure to reduce speed at an intersection when he was tried by Judge Harris. Trial Magistrate Weatherholt had found the man guilty and fined him $10 and costs.

A criminal appeal involving Paul Lumie Yommer on a motor vehicle violation, has been continued.

Oil Filter Blaze Quenched By Firemen

South Cumberland Fire Company was called to the rear of 101-103 Orlando Street late yesterday morning after a fire got out of control.

Firemen said workers from trucking firms were burning old oil filters. The blaze was brought under control in half an hour.

Mahoney, Hume Attack Tawes' Fiscal Policy

Gov. Cites S&L League Endorsement

By The Associated Press

The No. 1 tune on the political hit parade—taxes—was sung over the state Monday by two of the three Democratic contenders for the gubernatorial nomination.

The third candidate—incumbent Gov. J. Millard Tawes—touched on a variety of subjects and led off with the savings and loan issue.

Both George P. Mahoney and David Hume attacked the governor's fiscal policy, with Hume calling it a "program governed by irresponsibility and dedicated to bankruptcy."

"There has not been one single year since Gov. Tawes has been in office in which authorized spending has not exceeded current revenue," Hume said.

"A continuation of the Tawes concept of 'fiscal responsibility' must result in hitting Marylanders with the biggest tax increase in the history of the state."

Hume charged the governor with increasing spending by $200 million and general funds by $100 million in the past four years. He also claimed Maryland taxpayers are putting out $1.53 for every $1 of federal aid, and pointed to similar increases in state and local taxes.

"Gov. Tawes has told his opponents to keep their sense of humor," Hume said. "It may be that the only time this fierce tax increase will hurt is when we laugh."

Mahoney, meanwhile, took exception to the governor's program of state aid.

"By raising the sales tax, and imposing an extra tax on cigarettes, plus a tax on meals, the governor took huge sums from the taxpayers. . .," he said.

"He then divides it by a complicated formula, returns it to the counties and Baltimore City, and calls it state aid."

Mahoney claimed that the formula used to divide the money has made it possible to favor counties like Somerset (Tawes' home county) and Calvert (Comptroller Louis Goldstein's home county) at the expense of Baltimore County and Baltimore City.

Gov. Tawes, in a rhythm familiar to Maryland voters, beat on the savings and loan drum in a speech prepared for delivery before the Anne Arundel County Democrats at Annapolis. He chose as a target previous statements by Mahoney.

"Perhaps he (Mahoney) should be reminded that the Maryland League of Building, Savings and Loan Associations has endorsed the action taken by my administration in enacting an effective regulatory bill," he said.

He pointed out that the league is composed of 114 institutions, none of which has been subjected to either the state or federal law, and added the league has called upon Mahoney to "cease his intemperate and damaging charges which were having an adverse effect on the industry as a whole."

Students May Cast Absentee Primary Votes

Thursday Is Last For Applying

Students of bonafide schools, colleges, hospitals, and similar institutions, who are eligible Maryland voters, may cast absentee ballots in the approaching primary election May 15.

John R. Kelly, Democratic registrar and chief clerk of the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors, said the deadline for applications for an absentee ballot is Thursday, April 26.

The students became eligible when a change in the election laws of Maryland was made during the recent session of the General Assembly at Annapolis.

The change is as follows:

"A qualified voter, who on the occasion of any primary or general or special election, may be unavoidably absent from the state of Maryland, for whatever reason on the day of election, may vote as an absentee voter under this sub-title.

"A voter who is otherwise qualified and who is also a full time and regular student in a bonafide school, college, hospital or similar institution and who is unavoidably absent from the county or Baltimore City, in which he is registered, as case may be, on occurrance of any primary or general or special election also may vote as an absentee voter under this subtitle."

Eligible voters in the armed services must apply for an application for an absentee ballot five days prior to an election.

Those persons who are under a physician's care and unable to appear at the polls to vote may get an absentee ballot provided he or she has a doctor's certificate. The application must be applied for no later than 10 days prior to an election.

Miss Cumberland Jaycee Pageant Judges Named

Judges for the Miss Cumberland Jaycee competition have been selected, according to John F. Workmeister Jr. and Joseph Yockus, co-chairmen of the judges committee.

One of the contestants will be Miss Mary Ann McConnell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward McConnell, 534 Maryland Avenue. A 1961 graduate of Catholic Girls Central High School, she enjoys swimming, diving, dancing, tennis and modeling. She has modeled at several area stores and presently is employed at Lazarus' in Cumberland.

The Miss Cumberland Jaycee competition is an official "Miss America" preliminary. As a consequence judges were selected in accordance with qualifications established by the committee for the selection of the national panel of judges. National selection is made on the basis of excellent character and experience in television, radio, art, music, drama, dancing, and education.

Serving on the panel to determine which of seven finalists is best qualified to represent Cumberland in the "Miss Maryland" competition to be held at Salisbury in July will be Dr. Ward K. Cole, head of the music department at Frostburg State Teachers College; Mrs. Colleen Nelson of Pinto, a former "Mrs. Maryland;" George A. Caswell, vice president of Second National Bank of Cumberland; Mrs. Peggy Mackert, dance instructor and operator of Mackert Dance Studios; James "Doc" Webster, well-known local radio announcer.

Contestants will be judged on the basis of beauty, both physical and spiritual; character, poise, talent and intelligence.

The pageant is being held under the auspices of the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce and the Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company. Ed Enderle is general chairman of the pageant, the first of this kind to be held in several years in Cumberland.

Joseph Gratton and Gaylord Brooks, social chairmen, have made arrangements for the affair to be held at the Clarysville Inn at 8 p.m. Friday.

The pageant will be open to the general public and dancing will follow the contest, with music by the Moderaires. Tickets may be purchased at the door or from any Jaycee. The price covers both the pageant and dance.

Leaking Gas Tank Blame For Blaze

Gurley's Garage Opens As Usual

A leaking gas tank in a car parked on the second floor of Gurley's Garage was listed as the probable cause of the fire which caused considerable damage to the establishment Sunday night.

Fire Chief Virgil Parker said the car was parked near a wall in the middle section of the garage — the spot where the fire started.

He said, following an extensive inspection yesterday, that a natural gas heater was located above where the car was parked, and theorized that fumes from the leaking gasoline tank rose to the heater where they ignited.

Chief Parker said the downstairs door of the garage was open and that the draft set up would have directed the fumes toward the heater.

Tires Catch Fire

The blaze at that point was fed by a pile of tires stored nearby, which ignited.

The intense heat, Chief Parker said, found its way through a metal false ceiling and then mushroomed out and set fire to the roof.

He said firemen had to pull down most of the metal ceiling, foot by foot, to get to the flames, and cut holes in the roof to give the flames and smoke a chance to escape.

The fire chief said about a third of the roof was damaged and will have to be replaced.

There was extensive damage, he reported, to two of the cars parked in the center section, the only area affected by the fire.

Escape Damage

Cars parked in other sections of the floor, he said, were undamaged.

Chief Parker said the main stockroom of the garage is located on the first floor, and that damage was kept to a minimum by firemen who spread tarpaulins.

Chief Parker said the garage opened for business as usual yesterday morning and that repairs are underway.

He said men from Central and West Side fire companies did an "exceptionally good job" in bringing the fire under control.

The blaze proved the value of ventilation — a standard fire fighting procedure which calls for cutting holes in the roof to allow the accumulations of superheated air and flames to escape.

Hercules Helps With Design For Ranger 4

Small Rocket Lowers Velocity

Hercules Powder Company, which operates Allegany Ballistic Laboratory for the Navy, had a hand in the Ranger 4 lunar capsule launched yesterday from Cape Canaveral.

The Ranger 4 required the development of a high-performance solid-propellant retrorocket designed to slow the capsule so it would survive impact on the moon. Hercules, under a contract to Aeronutronic Division of Ford Motor Company, designed a small precise rocket which will reduce the capsule impact velocity to less than 125 miles per hour.

The Ranger retrorocket utilizes the latest principles in solid-propellant rocketry. Essentially, the new motor consists of a very high-energy, composite-modified, double-base propellant cast directly into a Spiralloy case. Spiralloy is a unique structural material of continuous glass filaments impregnated with epoxy resin and possesses the highest strength-to-weight ratio known materials. Spiralloy provides the strongest, lightest rocket motor case available, with weight savings of approximately 60 per cent over that attainable with the highest strength steel.

The chamber is constructed by winding the fiber glass on a mandrel which has been previously assembled with fore and aft aluminum adapters and a rubber insulator. The insulator is used to protect the Spiralloy chamber from the extremely hot combustion gases which develop when the motor is fired. The aluminum adapters are used to attach the nozzle to the motor at one end and the payload at the other. Before removing the mandrel from the chamber a Spiralloy skirt is constructed on the aft end of the motor to provide an attachment to the launching vehicle. Manufacturing is completed by casting the propellant in the rocket chamber, assembling an igniter, and adding a lightweight plastic nozzle.

The loaded and assembled motor, having a total weight of approximately 200 pounds, is dynamically balanced about its longitudinal axis so that it may be spin stabilized in space. The empty case and nozzle together weigh approximately 20 pounds and the unit is slightly over 31 inches in length and 18 inches in diameter.

In order to deliver the velocity increment in a reliable and reproducible manner, and to meet the reproducibility requirements of impulse, the weight of the propellant and of the inert motor parts was kept to close tolerances. In particular, the weight of the motor was controlled to a hundredth of a pound. Reliability and reproducibility were further assured by extensive testing prior to flight. A series of firings was conducted in an enviroment simulating the vacuum conditions of space, while another series of tests was conducted using a unique test fixture which imparted spin to the motor during firing.

Engineering, development, testing and manufacturing of the Range retrorocket was done by Hercules at its Bacchus, Utah, facility. The Spiralloy chambers and igniters were manufactured by Hercules at Rocky Hill, N. J.
